Escort Plows Into Wharf

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Esquimalt-based ocean-escort HMCS Jonquiere plowed into Pier 1 at the Ferry Building Friday while attempting to berth for a weekend visit.

A gaping gash was torn in the bow of the ship but none of the 140 officers and men aboard was injured.

(An Esquimalt naval spokesman said an investigation is underway to determine the extent of the damage to the ship and the dock.)

UP TO $20,000

Port Authority officials estimated pier damage may run to $20,000.

Dr. O. E. Ault, Canadian consul-general, said the Jonquiere would be given temporary repairs here and then would return to Canada for permanent repair.

The Jonquiere arrived in San Francisco with a sister ship, HMCS St. Theresa, and the Pacific Command submarine HMCS Grilse.

Weapons Arsenal Seized

CITY OF INDUSTRY, Calif. (UPI) — Federal agents late Friday seized 373 machine guns, some of which "were intended for private armies in California." It was reported to be the largest seizure of weapons in the state's history.

The automatic weapons and a silencer were seized at the Equigra Arms Co. in this Los Angeles County industrial community.

State Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch said, "Speed was necessary in this raid since our office has definite information that some of these illegal weapons were intended for private armies in California."

Lynch recently proposed legislation urging the outlawing of extremist organizations.

Civil Rights Murder

Klansmen Trio Free On $150,000 Bail

From UPI, AP

Three of four Ku Klux Klansmen arrested Friday by FBI agents for the highway ambush slaying of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo near Montgomery were released on $50,000 bond each the same day, apparently with money raised by Klan officials.

The body of Mrs. Liuzzo, first white woman to die in the Negro voting rights movement, was flown Friday night back to her home in Detroit, aboard an airplane sent by the Teamsters Union of which Mr. Liuzzo is an official.

Released on bail about three hours after Mrs. Liuzzo's body left Montgomery were Eugene Thomas, 43, of Bessemer, Ala.; William Orville Eaton, 41, Bessemer, and Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., 31, of Birmingham.

All three were released in the custody of their attorney, Matt Murphy, and Robert Shelton, Imperial Grand Wizard of the United Klans of America.

Still in custody was Collier Leroy Wilkin Jr., 21, of Fairfield, Ala. Authorities said he was on probation for carrying a sawed-off shotgun and would have to appear in court before he could be freed.

The four were charged in the Birmingham County courthouse with conspiracy in Thursday night's slaying of the vivacious white civil rights worker.

Alabama Atty.-Gen. Richmond Flowers later said he will ask for first degree murder charges to be filed against the four men.

"There will be no sweeping under the rug or whitewashing of this case. We will ask for the maximum penalty if we get the evidence," Flowers said.

President Johnson, his voice choked with emotion, went before a national television audience shortly after noon to announce the arrests and personally identify the suspects.

Governor George Wallace of Alabama described the slayings as an outrageous crime and said "such acts of cowardice will not be tolerated."

Correspondent Reports:

Red Missile Launchers Under Sea Off Cuba

MIAMI (UPI)—A veteran news correspondent said Friday night the United States has evidence that the Soviet Union may be building underwater long-range missile launchers off the southern coast of Cuba.

Jay Mallan of Miami, a correspondent for Time magazine, said there has been "mysterious construction work carried out at a point in the sea between Cuba itself and the Isle of Pines."

Mallan said the underwater work has been "photographed by reconnaissance planes of the Strategic Air Command that fly over Cuba periodically."

American experts who have studied the pictures are "puzzled" by them but believe the work may involve either of two projects, Mallan said.

He identified these as underwater submarine pens, or underwater launchers capable of firing long-range missiles.

It was the existence of long-range missiles in Cuba which touched off the 1962 Cuban crisis and U.S.-Russian confrontation.

The Jones Affair

Noose Dangles on Desk As Ouster Bill Passes

An opposition MLA attached a miniature hangman's noose to a desk microphone in the legislature Friday as the government rammed through final approval of its bill to fire G. E. P. Jones.

John Squire (NDP-Alberni) said the noose made of string signified the government's "crude abuses" of the institution of parliament.

He was ordered to remove it by chairman William Speare (SC-Cariboo), who observed "we express our view in this chamber verbally."

"Opposition leader Robert Strachan accused the government of 'arrogant display' of its powers during a stormy debate in committee that lasted two hours.

"We gave the Nazis at Nuremberg better treatment than this," thundered Mr. Strachan.

Tempera frayed on both sides of the House as opposition speakers tried to needle government backbenchers and cabinet ministers into justifying the firing of the purchasing commission chairman without a hearing.

Smear, Humbug

There were cries of "smear bill" and "humbug" from NDP and Liberals.

Two votes were taken during the debate. The first, when the opposition challenged a ruling from the chairman, was 28 to 18 in favor of the government.

The final passage of the bill was by a vote of 29 to 18. NDP and Liberals voted against the bill and all government members present voted in favor.

Several Absent

Two government backbenchers, Alex Matthews (SC-Vancouver Centre) and Hunter Vogel (SC-Delta) were out of their seats when the final vote was taken.

Highways Minister Gagliardi is out of town and veteran NDP member Arthur Turner is recovering from surgery.

Gordon Dowling (NDP-Burnaby) said the motives of the government in attempting to fire Mr. Jones have never been examined. He called them "furtive, secretive and shameful."

Out of Order

His resolution that Mr. Jones be called before the legislative committee on public accounts which would conduct a full inquiry and report back its findings was ruled out of order.

The ruling of the chairman was upheld by a standing vote and Mr. Strachan angrily asked for the results to be recorded in the journals of the house "bordered in black."

"This is just as bad as any book-burning," the opposition leader said. "You've torn up the rule book."

Members Warned

Speaker William Murray, who had returned to the chair, said: "I want to warn members of this house—let there be order."

"There can't be order without law," said Mr. Dowling.

Premier Bennett was out of the house for most of the debate on controversial Bill 34. In his absence the opposition fired questions at Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, who introduced the legislation.

Mr. Black said he wasn't able to provide answers on whether the government had asked for a recommendation from senior government officials for the removal of Mr. Jones or whether it had been

Slander Writ Issued Against Premier

G. E. P. Jones lost his chance for a legislative hearing Friday, but sought to take his case to court. In Supreme Court in Vancouver, a writ for slander and defamation of Mr. Jones' character was issued against Premier Bennett.

D. A. Thompson, acting for Mr. Jones, flew to Victoria Friday afternoon in a vain attempt to serve the writ on the premier.

It was announced later that lawyer George L. Murray of Vancouver will represent Mr. Bennett and accept the writ.

LONG SESSION REACHES END

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The longest session of the legislature since 1920 was prorogued by Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes at 10:30 p.m. Friday.

B.C. Hansard Nearer?

The legislature Friday approved a New Democratic resolution calling on the government to "consider the advisability of establishing" a Hansard to record the proceedings of the House.

In support of the resolution, Opposition Leader Strachan said B.C. is one of the few provinces in Canada without a Hansard.

The second session of the 27th parliament of B.C. broke all records for the present administration which has been in power nearly 13 years.

There were 68 sittings, 25 of them night sittings, and it was back at the end of the First World War that any session ran longer.

Premier Bennett wasn't present at the end of the session. He left earlier in the evening for Kamloops where he is to attend a banquet in his honor tonight.

The House finished its business at 10:05 p.m. and recessed for 10 minutes until the arrival of the lieutenant-governor.

Mr. Pearkes read a brief closing speech which touched on some major legislation dealt with at the session including creation of medical grants and a new crown corporation to develop real estate to help finance university expansion.

Fireworks Ban Bill Blows Up in House

Dallas
Guns:
$10,000

A private member's bill banning fireworks exploded in the legislature Friday, splitting both major parties.

Trade and Industry Minister Loffmark, scored party whip Bert Price, deputy speaker William Speare and four backbenchers joined nine New Democrats and the five Liberals in the House to support the bill.

Opposition Leader Strachan and three other New Democrats sided with the remaining government members to defeat the bill 28 to 21.

PRIVATE USE

The bill, introduced by Mrs. Lois Haggan (NDP—Grand Forks-Greenwood) would have banned the sale of fireworks and their use by private individuals in B.C.

Recreation Minister Kiernan suggested the bill would be too severe, but various members speaking in support of the legislation, pointed to the reduction of juvenile delinquency when fireworks are banned.

Altogether, the legislature defeated or disposed of 17 private members' bills in addition to numerous resolutions from both sides of the House.

Pier Blast Damages U.S. Ship

SAIGON (AP)—An American tank landing ship at a commercial pier in Da Nang was heavily damaged early today by a huge underwater explosion believed set off by Viet Cong saboteurs.

No one was killed. One member of the crew suffered a hand injury. The ship did not sink.

Children Burn

WARWICK, R.I. (UPI)—Four children were killed late Friday when fire swept their wooden home as they slept.

The four deaths raised to 16 the number of children who died in fires in New England during the previous 72 hours.

DETROIT (AP)—An 82-year-old woman died Friday of burns suffered when she turned herself into a human torch 11 days ago to protest United States policy in South Viet Nam.

MPs Honor 25-Year Men

Peace Breaks Out in the Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Members on both sides of the Commons paid warm tribute Friday to five members of the House celebrating their 25th consecutive year in the Commons.

Prime Minister Pearson sent each a red carnation. Speaker Alan Macnaughton began by saying the most difficult task for any Speaker is "naming" a member—the step taken in expelling an MP from the House. But he would name five members as long as the House would "waive the provisions" of the expulsion rule.

He then named Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, 69, Privy Council President McRath, 56, L. Elston Cardiff (PC-Buron), 76, Raymond Eudes (L—Montreal-Hochelaga), 32, and George E. Nixon (L—Algoma West), 67. All were elected March 26, 1940.

Members on both sides joined in applause as the names were given out.

Mr. Pearson hoped there would be no request for the members to withdraw.

"If they have offended by being here for 25 years I am sure they will not do it again," he added with a grin across the aisle at Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Pearson echoed the Speaker's words about Mr. Diefenbaker being "one of the great parliamentarians in our history."

Then he drew laughter by asking:

"What would this House of Commons be like without him? That is a rhetorical question I have no intention of trying to answer."

He wound up by wishing the opposition leader health and happiness.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) joined in the prime minister's sentiments.

Guy Marcoux (SC—Quebec-Montmorency) and Gilles Grogan (Creditists—Lapointe) added similar sentiments.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he and the other 25-year members had been honored "in any way that I have never seen equalled in the years that I have been here."

"All I can say is that occasions such as this, where warmth takes the place sometimes of the harshness of debate, add to one's pride in this great institution. We stack our weapons and substitute verbal garlands."

'Named' ...

Man Had Right Not to Answer

Citizens need not identify themselves to police unless found in suspicious circumstances, Magistrate William Ostler said Friday in city court.

He was commenting in the case of Patrick Gerald Gleeson, 4988 Echo Dale, who had pleaded not guilty to obstructing a policeman.

The officer in question, Const. Bryan Bailey, testified that on the afternoon of Feb. 21 Gleeson parked his car in the 10-minute zone outside the Churchill Hotel, 1140 Government, and went into a tobacco shop next to the hotel.

Const. Bailey followed Gleeson into the store and told him he must move his car.

Outside, he asked Gleeson to produce his licence, at which Gleeson replied: "This is not a police state. You can't question me in this manner. I'm not required to produce any identification."

Const. Bailey told Gleeson if he did not identify himself he could be arrested. The constable said he would ring city police station to ask them to send someone down who might straighten things out.

While the policeman was phoning the station, Gleeson caught a taxi and left the scene.

Gleeson rang the police station later that day to claim his car, which had been towed away.

In his testimony, Gleeson said Bailey had seemed "extremely intense and disturbed, and I was afraid of him physically."

Magistrate Ostler said that as Gleeson had been in charge of the car, he should have produced his licence.

Two courses had been open to Const. Bailey. He should either have allowed Gleeson to get into the car and then asked for his licence, or else, if Gleeson refused to get in, he should have ticketed the vehicle and had it towed away.

The magistrate said a private citizen is under no obligation to identify himself to police if surrounding circumstances exclude the likelihood that a crime is to be committed.

Gleeson's behavior had been stubborn and unco-operative, but not illegal, the magistrate said, dismissing the charge.

A man found rummaging through garbage cans on Government Street around midnight Thursday pleaded guilty to vagrancy.

John Herrell said he had come here about a week ago from Vancouver. On Tuesday he had received a cheque for $170, but had drunk it all in beer parlors by Thursday.

He asked Magistrate Ostler to let him go free so that he could go to Port Alberni to look for work. The department of veterans' affairs would give him his fare, he said.

The magistrate bound Herrell over for six months, on condition he go straight to the DVA office to get the fare out of Victoria.

In Oak Bay court, 19-year-old James Andrew Ross, 681 Towner Park, was fined $300 and had his licence suspended after pleading guilty to impaired driving.

Police stopped him Tuesday on Kings Road. His breath smelled strongly of alcohol and in both police and medical opinion he was impaired.

Nazis Received 'Better Treatment' brought forward by the officials.

This was outside his jurisdiction, the provincial secretary told the house. He would only add, in response to other questions in this connection, that the government had lost confidence in the chairman of the purchasing commission.

Alan Macfarlane (L-Oak Bay) accused Premier Bennett of using the three officials as a scapegoat for his government's failure to provide the legislature with information it needed to make a decision.

"This government is hiding behind its civil servants," he charged. "It knows this bill is illegal, immoral, irresponsible, unjust and certainly unprecedented."

Without Hearing

Mr. Dowding said the government has shown it isn't fit to rule by setting aside the law for its own convenience and discharging an employee without a hearing.

Slander Suit

Mr. Jones said "in the climate of publicity and public opinion generated by my detractors" these statements were a slander and defamation of his good name.

Since the government has refused to tell the legislature why it is firing him as chairman of the purchasing commission, Mr. Jones said:

"I will force Mr. Bennett to come to court to reveal these charges and to prove them before a judge and jury where I will have the opportunity to defend myself."

His lawyer was refused admittance to legislative corridors yesterday afternoon when he tried to serve the writ.

Mr. Thompson later sat briefly in the public gallery during debate on the bill to fire Mr. Jones. The bill was later approved by a vote of 28-18.

The plainclothes officers who have kept watch daily since David Cowlishaw, who last year threw a carton of blood on the floor of the House of Commons, paid a visit to the public galleries several weeks ago had several reinforcements yesterday.

Officials said no legal action may be launched against any member of the legislature during a period of immunity which extends from 20 days before the start of the session until 20 days after it ends.

Scalping Charged

CHICAGO — Chicago Stadium ticket sellers John Stroth, 36, and Michael Esposito, 45, have been arrested on charges of scalping tickets to Black Hawks hockey games.

The action followed an expose by a Chicago newspaper that would-be ticket buyers were being charged an extra $1 or $2 per seat after the stadium was supposed to be sold out.

Surgery Can Be Performed If Diverticulitis Severe

By JOSEPH MOINER, MD

Dear Dr. Moiner: What can be done about chronic diverticulitis? Is there surgery for it? Would hemorrhoids have anything to do with it, or with it turning into cancer? Or would a pain in the right hip have anything to do with the condition? —MRS. W. R.

P.S.: My doctor says this won't turn into cancer. Is that right?

I get rather frustrated at times because some people associate every disease with cancer.

Maybe I shouldn't be upset by this, but I am. Cancer scares me too, but I also think that it's my job to explain to people what to do about ailments that are not cancer.

Yes, there is surgery for diverticulitis—if the case is severe enough to warrant it. Most cases aren't. It's something like a "sore toe." If it's a blister or ingrown toenail, you don't operate—at least, you don't amputate. But if, on occasion, it's gangrene, then you do.

MULTIPLE ILL

Please don't measure every health problem in terms of "is it cancer?" With all due respect to cancer, it does not cause as many deaths as some other categories of disease, and even if it caused more, the lesser diseases still deserve their right full share of attention.

An equally frequent, and human, inclination is to try to find some sort of connection between whatever multiple ailments we may have.

This is a harder question to answer, because many times one ailment does have a relationship to another. Other times not. If somebody has bunions and dandruff, he knows they aren't related and doesn't ask me. But if he (or she) has varicose veins and also has some sores on the ankle that just won't heal, too often I am asked if there is a relationship. Because in this case there is.

DISTINCT RELATION

Hemorrhoids have a distinct relation to constipation; constipation indirectly might have a faint relation to diverticulitis; a pain in the hip would probably be a pain in the hip and that's all.

The best way, in this case, is to take each one separately. The connection with something else is remote.

Where there is, or is not, a connection between two problems cannot be answered by any general rule. Over the last several years I've discussed a lot of such problems. In the future, I'll continue to do so. So just come in, once a day, for our regular brief chat in this space, and we'll see if we can't answer a lot of such questions.

Dear Dr. Moiner: What would cause numbness of arms and hands? It occurs only in bed, but almost every night. I am 60.—MRS. R.R.

This is a not-uncommon complaint, and very often it can be traced to pressure on a nerve farther up, usually in the shoulder or neck. Using a higher or lower pillow, or none; or using a firmer mattress, or a bedboard (a sheet of plywood or such under the mattress) or learning to sleep in some other position so the pressure doesn't pinch the nerve, are common remedies. Sleeping with the arms up or under the head can interfere with the circulation to the arm and cause this discomfort.

But at 60, you may be well-advised to have your doctor examine you, possibly with the help of X-rays, to see whether precautions are advisable to prevent the trouble from gradually becoming more severe.

U.S. Planes Hit Radar Stations

SAIGON (AP)—Squadrons of U.S. warplanes hit Friday at four North Vietnamese radar stations. One of the targets was on Bach Long Island, deep in the Gulf of Tonkin formed by the shores of North Viet Nam and China.

A U.S. Navy spokesman said bombs ranging from 250 to 1200 pounds were loosed on stations at Bach Long and three mainland centres. Two were reported damaged heavily and two moderately.

The action, 12th attack on North Viet Nam targets since Feb. 7, accompanied raids by U.S. Air Force jets on suspected Communist Viet Cong guerrilla positions in widely scattered areas of South Viet Nam and revived ground fighting in the Mekong Delta.

Two navy planes were shot down in the gulf, but both pilots were rescued unhurt by U.S. Air Force patrols.

The strike at Bach Long was the deepest penetration of the series. It is about 140 miles southeast of Hanoi, a big Chinese island that is a base for MIG jet interceptor planes.

In the Mekong River Delta, a South Vietnamese Ranger battalion, about 500 men, moved into a blistering firefight with guerrillas. The guerrillas were reported well entrenched and equipped with mortars.

OTTAWA (UPI)—Professor Mulford Sibley can enter Canada after all, without a special inquiry.

Immigration Minister Nicholson told the Commons Friday he had exercised ministerial discretion after considering the relevant information to allow Prof. Sibley to speak to the Voice of Women and University of Manitoba students in Winnipeg.

The University of Minnesota professor with the unorthodox views became the centre of an international incident last week when immigration officials refused to let him enter the country unless he submitted to a special inquiry.

Prof. Sibley refused and flew back to Minneapolis.

Mr. Nicholson's latest announcement prompted the Manitoba chapter of the Voice of Women to re-invite the Minnesota professor to speak to members the weekend of April 10 and 11.

Prof. Sibley said he would be able to reply to the new invitation today, since the new lecture date required changes in his schedule.

Alaska Panhandle

Talks Likely With U.S. Over Access

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's covetous eyeing of the Alaska Panhandle may soon result in talks with the United States government for access to an ocean port for the fast-developing British Columbia and Yukon interior.

Northern Affairs Minister Laing is optimistic about the prospect for negotiations with the U.S. on access to the sea through the Panhandle, a rock-girt strip of land running from the 50th parallel to the 60th on the Pacific Coast.

This strip of Alaskan territory cuts off the developing lands of northwestern British Columbia and southwestern Yukon from the shortest and cheapest method of getting mineral and timber products to world markets.

Mr. Laing told the Commons Friday in reply to Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) that Prime Minister Pearson probably will make a statement in a week or 10 days on access to ocean ports through the Panhandle.

Mr. Laing may have given a clue to the government's thinking during a recent visit to Kilmat, B.C. He suggested there is great wealth in the B.C. and Yukon interior which it is in the interest of both Canada and the United States to get through the Panhandle barrier.

Israel Seeks Arms Freeze

LONDON (UPI)—Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol, warning that Egypt has "almost free access" to Soviet arms arsenals, called here Friday for an East-West embargo on shipment of arms to the tinderbox Middle East.

The visiting Israeli premier said such an embargo should be all-embracing and be enforced by a system of mutual inspection.

He told a news conference he discussed the arms embargo proposal with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson during a round of high-level policy talks.

Both Britain and the United States are known to favor a halt in the arms race in the Middle East, but the Soviet Union has been evasive on this score.

Companies Act To Be Revised

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons gave final approval Friday to a complete revision of the Companies Act, the first since 1953.

The revised act tightened up restrictions on federally-incorporated companies.

only Lawn-Boy has a 2-year warranty that's as long as some mowers last

Power Mowers with low price tags usually have short lives and shorter warranties. Lawn-Boy has a long warranty (twice as long as anyone else's) and a long life (eight or nine years is common). In fact, if you work it out on a "what-will-it-cost-me-per-year basis," Lawn-Boy is the biggest bargain of all. But, pay what you like, you won't find any mower with all these Lawn-Boy features:

FINGER-TIP START—makes

starting as easy as lifting a finger.

CLOG-PROOF GRASS-CATCHER—comes on or off in seconds, empties in a shake or two.

SPRING STEEL BLADE—has an exclusive stiffener, keeps blade level to cut level. See the 1965 Lawn-Boy at your dealer's soon.

Hearing Adjourned

ST. JOHN, Que. (CP)—The preliminary hearing of influence peddling charges against Yves Dupuis, former federal cabinet minister, was adjourned to April 6 Friday, following lengthy legal argument over defense access to certain documents.

100,000 Cheer Space Twins

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson and the U.S. Congress welcomed America's first "twin" astronauts to Washington Friday with a promise that the U.S. space program is aiming at the stars.

Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young, who piloted the world's first fully maneuverable spacecraft three times around the earth last Tuesday, were cheered by an estimated 100,000 people who lined the streets.

Young, whose blood pressure shot up at the beginning of the flight, cracked: "I didn't have this kind of heart beat before the launch."

The president planned on each man the Exceptional Service Medal of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Then he gave the 38-year-old Grissom a second award for becoming the first astronaut in the world to make two trips into space.

He said the United States was not concerned with stunts and spectaculars but was concentrating on sure and steady success.

The quickening pace of the nation's space program would mean accomplishments far beyond this achievement within another year.

An Improvement

THE USUAL demonstrations of parliamentary misbehavior, bad manners and questionable language for which our British Columbia legislative sessions have in the past gained considerable disrepute across the nation seem to have been strangely and happily held to a minimum this year.

With the drawing to a close of the present session all members may congratulate themselves upon this achievement. And as they make their several ways back to their constituencies they may reflect upon the thought that their images shine a little brighter this year than last because they had maintained the dignity of the House.

Certainly the attitude of both the government and opposition ranks has been much improved over previous years.

At least, that is the way it appeared. On the other hand, of course, it may only be that Ottawa has stolen the thunder which once was Victoria's. And almost anything would appear faultless in comparison with what is going on under the Peace Tower these days.

Our Dollar is Good

VICTORIANS rank near the top among Canadians as globetrotters with about 70 per cent of them making Britain and Europe their destination. The "season" is now almost upon us for another year, and the travel agencies say that this is one which will beat all previous records for the city.

In this connection it is interesting to note that many Canadians travelling outside this country are diffident about using Canadian currency as the basis of their travelling cheques or letters of credit.

According to tourist statistics, it appears that most Canadians travelling abroad continue to pay for their cheques and letters of credit either in U.S. dollars or in sterling, on the grounds that these are the two international currencies, and are thus more readily negotiable.

This is largely a misconception, for the Canadian dollar is known throughout the world as a hard currency, free from restrictions, and with a rate of exchange which is known daily throughout the banking world.

It may not be widely appreciated that it is greatly to Canada's international trade advantage if Canadian travellers keep themselves "in Canadian funds." The cashing of these cheques or letters in parts abroad then builds up Canadian currency in those countries and helps the balance of international payments which is so vital to Canada's export trade.

Canadians who travel abroad on U.S. notes or cheques are depriving this country of a legitimate trading weapon, and in the circumstances there is no valid reason why they should continue to do so.

Moving around the world with Canadian currency is in effect a type of patriotism that can be made to pay off.

Everyone's Business

SAFER CARS are within easy reach—if people really want them. In a recent National Film Board television presentation the statement was made that safety features not normally now incorporated in automobiles could be included, at a cost of $200, that would reduce fatalities by 60 per cent. But the view was also expressed that while manufacturers would meet popular demand, they would not anticipate it of their own volition.

Naturally enough, too. No car company is going to load its products with life-saving or injury-preventing devices if by doing so it is going to lose out in competition for sales. And the chief demand of automobile buyers at present, if the makers gauge it right, is for power and speed. Or so one may judge from the emphasis in advertising.

This is not to say, however, that there is no place for leadership in the other direction, reflecting the conscience of the whole people in regard to road safety. If buyers' demand will not do the trick, there is the legislative approach.

For this reason, Victoria city council is to be commended for endorsing a Fort William resolution calling for a safety code for car manufacturing. Instead of pushing the matter aside as none of its business. If enough other councils lend their support, the politicians in the federal and provincial fields will get the message. Reducing the fearful toll of traffic deaths is everybody's business, and it is fitting that pressure should start to build up from the level of government often described as being closest to the people.

Proper Topics

A UNIVERSITY of British Columbia professor who served on a secondary school curriculum committee but is dissatisfied with the eventual results says the outline of a Grade 11 course on the economics and geography of B.C. "looks suspiciously like a political primer." This because it recommends study of the government-owned ferry system, discussion of public versus private ownership of public utilities, emphasis on the role of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway in the development of the Peace River area, and examination of the value of highways to the economy. And incidentally, because it twice uses Premier Bennett's pet phrase, "dynamic society."

Somewhat we can't get very alarmed. Is there any of these matters that is not an important facet of the economy and development of the province? Would they not properly be elements in the course even if at this point the Social Credit party ceased to exist as a political entity?

To suggest that they should be eliminated would surely be to call for a half-blind look at the province and its economic progress and potentials.

And the professor needn't worry about the references to the dynamic society. By the time those words reach the classroom, if they ever do, they will be old hat. Mr. Bennett is probably thinking of his 1966 slogan right now.

Brief Joy

MISS LAMARSH: ... Indeed in the past two years it has been a real joy to me to learn as much as I have had the opportunity to learn about the way in which pension plans operate.

An hon. Member: You have not learned much. Mr. Wooliams: That was a short-lived pleasure.

Washington Calling

Facing Defeat on the Ground

By MARQUES CHILDS

THE headlines from day to day concentrate on American bombing of North Viet Nam. They divert attention from the grim fact fundamental to the conflict and American involvement.

The war on the ground in South Viet Nam is rapidly being lost.

So far-reaching is the control of the Viet Cong guerrillas that it has become all but impossible to supply outlying provinces except by transport planes.

Increasingly, by American bombing in South Viet Nam and the use of napalm, the Vietnamese people in the south are being alienated.

This situation is developed by Richard Dudeney of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch who is making his third intensive tour of Viet Nam. He presents a picture that, with increasing military restriction on reporting out of Viet Nam, is little known and little understood in this country. He reports that American officers and enlisted men now are standing night guard duty around principal installations in addition to doing their full day-time tasks because their commanders dare not rely on Vietnamese guards.

It is becoming more and more certain that American ground troops in division strength will have to be committed to Viet Nam if the war is not to end in disastrous defeat. On the eve of his visit to Washington to report to President Johnson, Ambassador Maxwell Taylor said almost as much. The point of no return on the road to full-scale direct American commitment to carry on the war on the ground and in the air seems, therefore, to be at hand.

In the light of a decision that may already have been taken it nevertheless may not be too late to ask whether there is an alternative. The official American position is to apply pressure on North Viet Nam through continued bombing.

Who needs Grits around, cracked the leader the other day with something between a grin and a grimace, "when you've got Tories like these?"

Secondly, he is supposed to be not only disowned by the powers of the party, but dead.

Dead because increasing numbers of deserters from his own people are turning on him and joining forces with the snipers and bushwhackers in the growing camp of his enemies.

But for a dead man, he creates more life and strife in Parliament than all the live men put together.

Then there's this. And it comes down to somebody having neglected to give him to plainly understand that Opposition leaders traditionally are supposed to play only supporting roles on the parliamentary stage, leaving the starring part exclusively to the prime minister regardless of who he might be.

All Opposition leaders in the last 30 years have played it that way, including Lester B. Pearson when, for six years, he was trying to lead the Liberals out of the political wilderness, and Diefenbaker as prime minister was striding across the land as if he held the mortgage.

But now Lester B. Pearson is prime minister and has been for almost two years, and nothing really seems to have changed basically in his relations to John Diefenbaker.

The prime minister is supposed to make all the news, using such handy news-making devices as cabinet, senate and diplomatic appointments, high-level conferences with world leaders, trade deals, official declarations of important government policy or statements on just about anything and everything in the wide field of federal responsibility about which he cares to comment. But makes statements, issue declarations, promulgates policy as he will, the easy-going prime minister usually finds himself, resignedly, upstaged by the hard-going Opposition leader.

Time after time, while Mr. Pearson strives to make the news as any prime minister should, Mr. Diefenbaker without even trying, makes the headlines as any Opposition leader shouldn't.

He does it by topping the prime minister: by going him one better, often, if he has to, with joyous and zesty abandon.

For the United States, commitment to combat on the ground as well as in the air will have consequences for which the country is wholly unprepared. The sending of one army division, as hinted by Gen. Harold K. Johnson, army chief of staff, will be within the scope of planned fire-fighting operations.

But not too far ahead in commitment planning is the commitment of 250,000 Americans to combat on the ground. That means a greatly stepped-up draft and growing casualty lists. Along this road somewhere it means increased taxes, controls and/or inflation and the other impositions of a Korea-type war. These would be the consequences at home, ignoring speculation about the possibility of bringing Russia and China together again.

The question is asked here about the range of advice President Johnson is getting. Except for an occasional outsider, is he not hearing almost solely from the hawk? What is the weight of the diplomatic advice he receives? Answers are hard to come by.

Wrong Place for Pets

THE March 21 Colonist states, "Kids and pets to strut stuff." Apparently the Victoria Chamber of Commerce intends to include animals in the junior costume and floral parade on April 17 to be held during the Spring Flower Festival.

Many people are sorry to see that pets are to be included and thus spoil an otherwise enjoyable event. It is to be hoped after further consideration, this section will be cancelled. There is no place for pets at the best of times and these pet events usually end in confusion, tears and tragedy. The dogs get excited and often escape control of young owners and dog fights and lost dogs are the result.

Cats, who are more nervous than dogs, should never be taken from the confines of their own homes at any time, as they become terrified at changes of scene and the sight and sound of barking dogs. They usually escape with someone being hurt in the process and become hopelessly lost. Transportation back and forth is also hazardous for animals, especially cats.

It is not likely the party for entrants to be given afterwards at the Memorial Arena will include animals; what happens to them then?

Minstrel Show

As I sat in a "comfortable pew" in the McPherson Playhouse a week ago I gave much thought to the overwhelming barrage of criticism I had been hearing on the radio and reading in the press and I tried honestly to see if there was any foundation for it.

"Is there anything in this performance," I asked myself, "which could be construed as insulting or degrading the Negro?" At the end of the performance I could answer my own question with a very emphatic "No."

It was a splendid show, thoroughly enjoyed by all, including, I might add, the colored people who were present.

Pension Rights

Letters to me indicate that news media have mistakenly reported a tightening of the residence requirements for old age security pensions, and that the Conservatives supported this.

The present Old Age Security Act requires that, to qualify for an OAS pension a person must have resided in Canada for 10 years immediately preceding his

The Shakespeare Dispute

False Conclusions

By FRANK GILBERT ROE
On Behalf of the Shakespeare Readers' Society of Victoria

THE "unpopular opinions" indicated by Dr. W. A. Fergusson in the Colonist of March 19 have some stiff fences to face before they attain the golden age wherein he foresees them as basic axioms in critical acceptance. Rather surprisingly, Dr. Fergusson omitted the name of his own choice among the 26 (sole) "true Shakespeares" or the 57-plus collaborators in the authorship. We who have enjoyed the advantage of Dr. Fergusson's acquaintance know the answer: this man is Edward de Vere, the 17th Earl of Oxford.

It is a strange myopia (in a cultivated mind) that Dr. Fergusson is still a victim of the delusion that the problem can be settled by counting noses among "eminent men," who have questioned the Stratford authorship. Whatever a "great man" may be, it is now to learn that this indeterminate status in itself qualifies any person to pronounce upon a complex problem in biographical history and criticism without specialized study.

A fellow-Oxfordian, Charlton Ogden, carries this doctrine to its ultimate conclusion. He prints a list of 22 senators, legal luminaries, "high executives" in big business fields, and "great men" at large, signatories of some document endorsing the Oxford authorship; to reject whose joint authority is "to cast serious reflection on men in high position."

Dr. Fergusson's very scanty list does include Professor Trevor Roper, one of the very few who were scholars first and anti-Stratfordians later; but Trevor Roper occupies a very isolated position among Elizabethan experts on the Shakespearean Problem.

If "eminent men" are to be the criterion, almost every Elizabethan of eminence in any land — supports the Stratford claim. The stock argument is that these men ("almost without exception," we learn) are lazy-minded, arrogant egotists, unwilling to shed their prejudices, and in the final analysis, unwilling to risk their jobs, and even "interested" in the profitable commercializing of the "Stratford cultus."

This last is unworthy of Dr. Fergusson's endorsement when applied to an entire, large class of scholars whose own chosen studies have (notably) not been in the "best seller" category. The possibility that some at least may have been actuated by a sincere conviction of the truth of their contentions is not even mentioned.

The self-evident truth is, despite the emphasis upon "research" before reaching their conclusions, that the "conclusions" came first, followed later by the hunting-up of "evidence" to support them. Calvin Hoffman tells us himself at a very early stage in his researches, "It must, it must be Marlowe..." Had they begun with Shakespeare's England instead of with "who wrote Shakespeare?" they would have encountered such a body of historical fact—commonly still unrealized—that their fantastic conclusions would have been seen for the fallacy they are.

These men are still chanting the old shibboleth, "We know so little about this man Shakespeare." High among them is Dr. Fergusson's own chosen pundit, John Thomas Looney, whose original edition (1920) was issued (1949) unaltered, despite 30 years of further insight and discovery of documents. They do not wish to know this. One of Dr. Fergusson's earliest men, Sir George Greenwood, is among those who deny that William Shakespeare was ever mentioned by his contemporaries. When Francis Meres (1598) said Ben Jonson (1623) — amongst others — did mention him, it is "quite clear" they meant somebody else!

To save space, I must summarize:

1. The fanciful productions of the Baconian cult... The impossibilities of Marlowe (et al). The "Baconians" proper are still the vast majority of "anti-Stratfordians."
2. "Shakespeare" must have been "his characters in order to conceive them... King, prince, courtier; presumably also lady, princess, queen! Such critics are so destitute of the creative imagination they cannot even conceive it is another. To construct Macbeth, ergo, Shakespeare must first have murdered an unsuspecting guest in his bed!"
3. The Stratfordians "refuse to consider these questions." The Folger Shakespeare Library at Washington rebuts this assertion completely.
4. Shakespeare's "latinate knowledge of the court": What modern can decide that? It may be our ignorance quite as much as his "knowledge."
5. Shakespeare's "mastery of field sports, which were the pursuit of the aristocracy... Tell that to the Poachers of England, like Kipling's 'old Holden', commonly the earliest instructors of 'the squire's boys'."
6. Shakespeare's "lavish travel": All this could be picked up in London. From his "intimate knowledge" we learn there was a road between Verona and Milan, infested with outlaws who swore by "Robin Hood's fat friar." Also that the brothels in Vienna were in the suburbs; that there were old nurseries, and little shops where poor apothecaries served their poverty against their will. In Messina he encountered the Sicilian policeman Dogberry and Verano, with their friends Hugh Oatcliffe and the two Shaleos. Likewise in Athens those eminent Greek comedians Quince, Snug, Bottom, Flute, Snout and Starveling, and probably "old John Naps of Greece." The cloud-capped towers, the gorgeous palaces, the solemn temples, could easily be derived from traveler's tales; the magnificent direction is Shakespeare's, but not necessarily the spectacles themselves.
7. Shakespeare's utter absurdity as the author is supposed to be demonstrated by his "bookish" upbringing in the "sneaky town of Stratford" (a larger place than Tudor Manchester, Liverpool, or Birmingham), whose squalid associations are revealed by his father having been fined—along with other neighbors who included Latinists—for leaving a much-beat outside his door. The contemporary Bishop of Peterborough was prosecuted and fined in his own cathedral city for the same offence.
8. Shakespeare, the "ignorant poor who couldn't even spell; but whose 'Venus and Adonis' was registered at Stationers' Hall on April 18, 1593, by Richard Field, the poet's fellow-townsmen and also its publisher. Surely Shakespeare's disabilities were at least as manifest to his own day as they are to the modern 'anti-Stratfordians'!"

The blunders of this presumptuous pretender when Ben Jonson wished had "dictated a thousand lines" were also perpetuated word for word by Queen Elizabeth I, Francis Bacon, Robert Burton, Sir Robert Cecil, Daniel Defoe (of "Robinson Crusoe"), the Earl of Derby, Sir Edward Dyer, Michael Angelo Florio, Ben Jonson, Gervase Markham, Christopher Marlowe, the Earl of Oxford, Arthur Puttenham, Sir Walter Raleigh, the Earl of Rutland, Sir Antony Sherley, Sir Philip Sidney (and also Sidney's sister the Countess of Pembroke), the Earl of Southampton, and Sir Antony Wingfield. And all these—unknown to one another—chose the same impossible lot for their "ghost-writer!"

B.C. Backs Formula

By GARY OAKES

Over-riding New Democratic opposition, the legislature Friday voted its approval of the proposed amendments to Canada's constitution despite a prediction the formula will block a national health plan.

Premier Bennett, who introduced the resolution, said all premiers and the prime minister are of accord in proposing constitutional amendments.

But Vancouver NDP member Alex Macdonald warned "you're paying far too great a price for that unanimity," suggesting that one province can veto national legislation because of the terms of the amending formula.

He said Prince Edward Island could block implementation of the Bill of Rights because of the veto power.

UNMITIGATED DISASTER

Later he called the proposals an "unmitigated constitutional disaster for a growing country."

Opposition Leader Strachan said the amendments would bring home a constitution "we would never be able to change effectively."

Randolph Harding (NDP—Kaslo-Slocan) said one dissenting vote by any province could kill a national health insurance plan under terms of the amendments.

MOVE DEFEATED

The vote was 35-13 in favor of the support resolution.

Earlier the House defeated an NDP motion calling for the abolishment of the Senate, 34-13.

Mr. Macdonald called the Senate a "glorified old-age pensioners' club" and a "non-elected upper House with a veto power over legislation."

DICTATES POLICY

Liberal Leader Perrault said his party wasn't prepared to go along with such a resolution.

Attorney-General Bonner, a supporter of Senate reform, said such a resolution tended to dictate government policy and the government didn't intend to set policy on the Senate at this time.

Faculty Past Target

University of Victoria staff and faculty have zoomed past the target set for the tri-universities capital fund campaign.

First division to pass the target, the group has pledged totalling $51,926. Target was set at $50,000 and other pledges are expected.

UNIONS URGED

Meanwhile, trade unionists in Greater Victoria were urged Wednesday to support the campaign.

"This is deserving of the support of every unionist in the area," said Joseph Morris, Canadian Labor Congress vice-president visiting the Victoria Labor Council.

MOTION SUPPORTED

Delegates unanimously supported a motion from Jack Driscoll, president of the Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades council, that all affiliated unions extend the fullest possible support to the drive.

Indian Bands Vote On Liquor

DUNCAN — Members of two Indian bands on southern Vancouver Island have voted on whether to allow liquor on their reserves, an official of the Cowichan Indian agency said Friday.

On the Tsahout reserve in East Saanich, with 71 eligible voters, 28 voted for liquor and 13 voted no. On the Tseycum reserve at Patricia Bay, with 12 eligible voters, the result was two yes and nine no.

The results have been sent to the Indian affairs branch in Ottawa for final decisions.

New Justice Minister Due in Bonn Today

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, struggling to avert a West German government crisis over the five-year extension of the hunt for Nazi murderers, announced Friday night he will name a new justice minister. He will replace Free Democrat Ewald Bucher, who resigned after attacking the constitutionality of parliament's decision to extend the hunt.

Leaders of the Free Democratic party, a small coalition partner of Erhard's ruling Christian Democrats, say no Free Democrat could sign the bill into law as justice minister.

Erhard's official spokesman said the name and party affiliation of the appointee would be announced today, adding only that the new justice minister would not come from the present cabinet.

UPSET COALITION

Presumably, the post will go to a Christian Democrat, thereby upsetting the coalition alignment.

The justice minister submitted his resignation Thursday night after the Bundestag overrode his objections and voted to continue the search for Nazi murderers until Jan. 1, 1970.

Bucher and others professed grave doubt as to the constitutionality of the law.

Credit Groups Meeting Here

About 180 members of the Associated Credit Bureaus of Canada and the Credit Granters Association of Canada will converge on the Empress Hotel over the weekend for a five-day consumer credit conference.

Credit bureau national executives met all day Friday in a session leading off the conference.

Today, credit bureau members will meet for an all-day session, and members of credit granters association board of directors began their meeting.

Sunday morning, discussion topics will include "computers in the credit bureaus of the future" and "the boss."

Monday noon, B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner will address both groups in a luncheon sponsored by the provincial government.

A no-credit rally of service stations who back the new "cash-on-credit-card" policy in Greater Victoria is scheduled next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Ingraham hotel.

The policy of refusing credit to car owners will go into effect at 150 service stations April 1, two days after the last meeting of backers.

The 28,000-ton P and O Orient liner Oronsay will pick up the pilot off Brochtie Ledge, at 12:15 a.m. Sunday, on her way to Vancouver, from Australia.

Head of Beer Shouldn't Grow Ears

Quipped Alex:

"On dear, my bill on privacy
Has now gone down the drain.
That they will go on bugging me
Is very, very plain.
They wire my walls and tap my phone
So I can never be alone.
What will happen next, I fear
Is they will even tap my beer!"

Parks Act Approved Despite Opposition

B.C.'s first Parks Act was approved by the legislature Friday.

Opposition attempts to amend the act in several major respects failed.

Leo Nimsick (NDP—Cranbrook) wanted the government to set up a commission with full powers to administer all provincial parks. The commission should be responsible to the legislature, he said.

Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan, whose department runs provincial parks, said this would be "a negation of responsible government."

Mr. Nimsick also wanted an amendment that would make the legislature instead of the cabinet the body to approve all changes in park boundaries. The minister said this would be "unworkable."

Labor-Management Issues Should Be Honest—Morris

Unemployment, automation, union organization, and public support for labor came under discussion during the packed conference schedule of labor education week just concluded in Victoria.

"The challenges we Canadians face are of such magnitude that labor and management must learn to live and work together."

EDUCATION WEEK

Those words, summing up the theme of labor education week, were used in an address to Victoria Rotary by Canadian Labor Congress vice-president Joe Morris Thursday.

Throughout the week labor officials took their views to the community in lectures before groups ranging from Silver Threads to Kinmen.

Chief speakers were Mr. Morris and CLC publicity director Jack Williams.

In his speech to Rotary members Mr. Morris said differences of opinion between labor and management should be "honest."

One of the problems for labor, and a problem which has caused difficulty with management in some industries, is automation.

Problems will arise, said Mr. Morris, because in an automated society "the few will serve the needs of the many."

Mr. Morris said questions are popping up faster than answers can be found in the field of automation.

"We need more information about tomorrow's problems," he said.

Man Guilty Of Watching Drag Race

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Superior Court Judge George Freese sentenced a defendant charged with being a spectator to a drag race to 10 days in jail and ordered him to pay the costs of prosecution.

Attorneys for Ned Levin, 33, of Walla Walla, gave immediate notice of appeal. Bond for Levin was set at $250.

Levin and about 30 others were arrested Feb. 6. Prosecutors and defence attorneys agreed to try Levin and let the outcome of his case govern the status of the others.

Levin was found guilty of a vagrancy statute against disorderly persons.

"No orderly person would join a group on a country highway at 11 p.m. for the purpose of being a spectator to a drag race," Freese said.

Soviet Farm Plan Approved

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Communist Party central committee Friday ended a three-day session by approving party leader Leonid Brezhnev's proposal for a massive investment of $75-100,000,000 in farming over the next five years.

Tass also reported the 330-member body gave formal approval to the Soviet decision to render aid to Communist North Viet Nam "with the object of repelling aggression on the part of the American imperialists."

After hearing a report by top ideologist Mikhail Suslov, the ruling central committee gave its approval to the documents adopted by the 19-nation Communist "unity" conference which met here March 1 to 5.

Tass said the committee meeting decided the conference, boycotted and denounced by Peking as "illegal," was "an important step along the road to unity of the world Communist movement with the object of fighting against imperialism, colonialism, cheviem, according to informed sources."

Viet Nam Disrupts UN

UNITED NATIONS (UP) — The United Nations Friday began talks aimed at solving its financial deadlock, but the first session turned into a bitter debate on U.S. actions in Viet Nam. The talks were then recessed until April 21.

Soviet delegate Nikolai T.
Fedorenko said the 33-nation negotiating committee "begins its work in an atmosphere dangerous to the peace in the world." U.S. bombing, napalm, and gas attacks in Viet Nam were "a crime against mankind."

U.S. Ambassador Francis T.
Plimpton expressed regret that "discordant, irrelevant, cold war propagandistic note" had been injected into the conference, and British Minister of State Lord Caradon said "we have enough difficulties with the work before us."

But Poland, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia followed the Soviets in bringing up Viet Nam, and Plimpton devoted most of his speech to the committee to the situation in southeast Asia.

The committee is trying to work out a way of paying for past U.N. peace-keeping missions and to establish a system for financing future missions.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bruce
Abbey, fourth-year University of British Columbia science student, was committed Friday to stand trial on a charge of possession of marijuana.

RCMP Const. A. G. Snidanko said he arrested Abbey Feb. 4 at the university, where he took possession of several unopened letters and a vial. The letters had been mailed from Mexico and were addressed to someone else in care of Abbey.

The letters contained a green vegetable substance which was analyzed as marijuana, he said.
Abbey's counsel said Abbey had possession of the letters against his wishes. He neither used marijuana nor had any intention of using it.

Last Call for Seeds!

By M. V. CHESNUT, FBES

This is the last call for free seeds of the new Giant Multiflora sweet peas, for I won't be mentioning the subject again after today.

If you didn't get around to writing for your free sample packet of these seeds, you'd better get that letter off today, or if you prefer, use the attached coupon instead. In either case, don't forget to enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

I'd like to mention once again that I cannot answer any questions on garden subjects when these are enclosed with requests for free seeds—the seed requests are handled by a special mailing crew and I don't even get to see these letters. If you run into any kind of emergency in your garden and need urgent advice or information, write a separate letter, enclosing another stamped and self-addressed envelope.

With the sweet pea site prepared as outlined in my last column, it is time now to get our sprouted seeds into the ground. Stretch your garden line down the middle of your 30-inch strip of prepared ground, and using it as a guide, make a furrow 1½ inches deep.

I have come to be a great believer in wetting down my seed furrows before sowing any seeds, using a mild fertilizer solution which my wife insists on calling "Planter's Punch."

Make this up by dissolving one tablespoonful of any high-test soluble fertilizer in one gallon of water. Use a fertilizer of the instant kind, such as Old Gardener, Hyponex, Liqui-Life, Atlas or Alaska Fish Emulsion, Alginure liquid seaweed, or Instant Vigoro. Pour the solution in the seed furrow, very slowly and gently, and when it drains away, go ahead and sow your seeds.

Sweet peas belong to the legume family of plants, and all the members of this family have a rather unusual ability to secure quite a large part of their nourishment from the air.

They do this by virtue of certain beneficial bacteria which take up residence in colonies on the roots, forming little nodules or swellings, where they work away tirelessly at their job of manufacturing nitrate fertilizer from atmospheric nitrogen. These nodules can be seen quite clearly when you pull up roots of peas, beans, clover or alfalfa.

None of the legume plants ever amount to a pinch of coon feathers unless they form a partnership with these co-operative bacteria. Trouble is, you can't count definitely on the presence of these nitrogen-fixing germs in any particular piece of ground.

If legume crops of some kind grew and thrived on the site last year, it is safe to assume the beneficial bacteria are in the soil, but in ground where peas, beans or sweet peas have never been grown, it is a wise precaution to inoculate the seeds with a culture of the nitrogen-fixing bacteria.

This culture is sold in the form of a black powder, under such trade names as Nitro-Nox, Legume Aid, Nodogen and Nitragin, and it costs only 25 to 50 cents for enough of the stuff to inoculate pounds of seeds. You can scatter the black powder thinly in the seed furrow, or you can moisten your sprouted seeds and shake them up in a bag with a little of the inoculant powder immediately before sowing.

Sow your inoculated seeds six inches apart in the furrow—you don't have to allow for any "misses" when you sow sprouted seeds—and firm the soil over them.

Mark the position of each seed as you cover it, then go back and up-end a jam jar over each buried seed. This is not for frost protection, as you might imagine, but simply to maintain a warm, humid condition in the soil surrounding the seed and so coax the seedling to the surface a little faster.

The jars should be removed as soon as the seedlings appear.

SHEILAH GRAHAM Talks to MARNI NIXON

Ghost Voice Emerges

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Marni Nixon, the voice of the stars, has finally broken through her ghostly anonymity — she hopes. Having finally made a visible and singing appearance in The Sound of Music, she has resolved that from now on, she is on her own.

Everyone now is apparently aware that Marni, who sang for Deborah Kerr in The King and I and for Natalie Wood in West Side Story, also provided the singing voice for Audrey Hepburn in My Fair Lady — and this fact probably cost Audrey the Oscar nomination for best performance by an actress this year.

"Jack Warner had me sign a statement that I wouldn't discuss the dubbing for My Fair Lady," Marni told me. "But Audrey herself told everybody in town that I had done the singing for her — and this was very generous of her. Deborah Kerr also revealed that I sang both the low as well as the high notes for her." Natalie Wood, she told me, had hoped to be able to do her own singing in West Side Story and actually did the pre-recording of the numbers. But before the film was released, Marni was called in by the studio to take care of the singing chores.

"Why shouldn't it be known that someone else does the singing?" she asked. "There's no reason not to give credit to the people who do the singing. And if they did that, there would be less fuss about it."

"Is it difficult to fit your voice to that of another person?" I asked Hollywood's best-known ghost singer.

"It requires study," she responded. "I try to lend myself to their personalities so that when I sing it won't detract from them. And most actresses, once they accept the idea, are grateful and happy. Most of them actually can sing a little, but when you stand in front of a microphone you have to be able to sing a lot."

"When I worked with Deborah Kerr, we rehearsed all the scenes, spending about six weeks on the job. By the time we started the recordings, she knew my style and I knew all the gestures she would be making while singing. That way we knew that the final result would be just what we wanted. On the 'Soliloquy' number, we sat side by side in front of two microphones. She did the spoken lines and I did the singing lines."

The ghosting for Miss Wood in West Side Story was a different sort of job, Marni told me. "We started with her singing the low notes only, but it didn't work out. Her voice is light and girlish and it was obviously not the same voice on the high notes. She minded my singing all the notes because she had been under the impression that they would use her voice."

I asked Marni, who is very attractive, how she had started on her career as a singing ghost.

"They needed a voice for Margaret O'Brien in a picture called The Secret Garden at Metro. She was 15 at the time, I was 17. I sang a little lullaby in Hindi. The job took two days. After that, I did some concerts around town, prestige concerts, and more and more people came to know me."

"At that time, my idea was to concentrate on opera and I have sung opera. I will continue to do concerts. I'm going to do one in New York in June with the Philharmonic after I get back from a concert tour of Israel."

Last year, Marni appeared at the New York City Centre in the title role of My Fair Lady. "I was afraid I would do an imitation of Audrey Hepburn doing an imitation of me. But I was helped enormously by Julie Andrews. She was just wonderful, giving me lots of tips on the handling of the character — you know, what had worked and what hadn't in the original production."

"Whom will you sing for next?" I asked.

"I don't believe I will ever sing for anyone else again. Apart from wanting to establish my own identity, I just don't think I'll have time. The offers are pouring in now. In addition to my concerts, there's a strong possibility I'll do a Broadway show next season."

"Also, I have my family to look after. My husband is Ernest Gold, the composer who won an Oscar for his score of Exodus and I have three children — a boy and two girls. "They're all redheads," she added. "And they all sing."

"The whole world is feasting with unhappy souls; The French hate the Germans, the Germans hate the Poles, the Italians hate the Yugoslavs, the South Africans hate the Dutch, And I don't like anyone very much."

... sing the Kingston Trio in their witty Merry Minuet.

That sums it up very well. There's been a good deal of restiveness in the news-magazines recently about the fact that so many U.S. libraries in various parts of the world have gone up in smoke. Every week, it seems, another library is missing.

EATON'S Garden Tractor Demonstration

Last chance for you to see EATON'S expert staff demonstrate Simplicity Landlord Tractors and "TecoMaster" Rotary Tillers. Come in and try them yourself the last Saturday in March.

From 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Corner Ash Road and Mileva Lane
Watch for directional signs.

Final Demonstration Saturday, March 27th to marched-on is always small, and what's more—as New Society points out—they're the same people, no matter what the cause.

"Against Verwoerd, against Franco, against LBJ, against the bomb (still), L-nation's Sunday demonstrations are against all sorts of things, but the people themselves always seem to be the same," reports New Society.

"Even the organizers are often the same. One of them is Timothy Wellesey-Miller, who in just two years of political activity has directed about 50 marches, protests, jactations, and rallies."

I do think the high moral tone we take about the highly-organized mobs of the dictatorships is just a little bit hypocritical. Our democratic marchers are just as well-organized, aren't they?

As to their sincerity, I think all marchers—Communist, civil rights workers, ban-the-bombers, lady suffragettes—are all about equally so. Or to put it another way, about equally not so.

The important thing to a marcher is to march—against Franco, the Fascist tyrant, for Franco the great fighter against communism, against LBJ, the imperialist warmonger, or for LBJ, the leader of the free world.

Down with 'em all and up with 'em all and the same way will organize a very nice demonstration, protest, picket, or rally for you.

Coast Guard Hurries To Its Own Rescue

ASTORIA (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard has rid itself of the dead whale that was stuck in moorings at the base here.

Three men were the heroes of the removal. They went down near the whale to cut across timbers after the cutter Swallow was unable to pull the 40-foot mammal loose.

The whale was taken out to sea.

Soviet Note Sent Back

U.S. Rejects Protest Against 'Poison Gas'

(MOSCOW (UPI)) — The Soviet Union Friday accused the United States of using "poison gases" in Viet Nam and demanded in an official note an immediate end to such "inhuman acts."

The U.S. embassy promptly rejected the note and returned it to the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

An American spokesman said the rejection cited Secretary of State Dean Rusk's declaration that the United States is not using gases prohibited by the Geneva conventions.

The Soviet note made no mention of American statements that the gases being used in Viet Nam were similar to those employed for riot control in many places around the world and were non-lethal.

Also ignored was the fact that the tear and nausea gases were used by South Vietnamese forces and not by American troops.

The U.S. embassy said in rejecting the diplomatic note that it was "based on a completely false allegation that poisonous gases are being used in Viet Nam."

The Soviet note warned the United States of its "grave responsibility for crimes against the Vietnamese people and the consequences this could entail."

Earlier, Tass reported that Moscow had called on Britain to join in demanding the United States immediately end its "aggressive military actions" and withdraw all American troops.

It's Not So Bad —Gassed Reporter

By PETER WARD

TORONTO (TNS) — Poor old Uncle Sam never wins.

The U.S. began using combination tear and nausea gas in Viet Nam this week in an effort to cut down civilian casualties.

Within a few hours of the announcement the whole world — enemies and friends — was deluged Washington with notes of shocked disapproval.

ILL-INFORMED

It is clear that those who are making the fuss are either ill-informed or are deliberately trying to make propaganda at the expense of the civilian lives.

Viet Cong fighters might make up a quarter of the population in a typical Communist-controlled village, with perhaps half the others sympathetic.

DROP LEAFLETS

Government forces will first drop leaflets on such a village warning the civilians to clear out, then attack from the air with high explosives, napalm, jelled gasoline bombs, and machine-gun fire.

Viet Cong die in an attack like this, but so do women and children.

Globes of jelled gasoline upon through the air, sticking like flaming syrup to whatever they touch, burning through homes, sampans and flesh.

LIKE SEA-SICKNESS

The U.S. decided to try fear and nausea gas instead. The gas isn't as bad as it's painted. I got a dose of it two years ago in Alaska while covering an Arctic exercise with the U.S. Army.

It makes your eyes burn until you can't help crying, and it heaves your stomach like sea-sickness.

Not very nice, I know, but certainly better than becoming a flaming napalm casualty.

Twelve church bells arrived at New Westminster from England June 4, 1965, destined for steeples of Indian churches in the Fraser River area.

Sunshine is good

But not for beer.

Beeranship is the art of getting the most enjoyment out of your beer.

Most Beermanishippers agree that there's nothing nicer than sitting out in the sun with a beer in your hand.

As long as the beer in your hand isn't directly in the sunshine.

Beer is delicate. It can get sunstroke, just like people can. (Even Molson Canadian, and it's the light beer that's all beer.)

So next time you're sitting in the sun, sipping and humming, you may have to move your beer an inch or two, into the shadow.

Grant for Winter Fiesta

Ottawa Kicks Off Games

OTTAWA (CP)—Amateur sports in Canada got a shot in the arm Friday with an announcement by Health Minister Judy LaMarsh that the federal government will contribute $700,000 towards holding the first Canadian winter games near Quebec City.

Miss LaMarsh also told the Commons that the Quebec government has agreed to provide capital expenditures for the competition, to be held in 1967. She said the Quebec share in providing facilities will cost the province more than the federal grant.

WELCOME NEWS

The announcement came as welcome news for the Canadian Amateur Sports Federation, which conceived the idea of the games in 1962 as a showcase for amateur sport. The federation planned to hold the games every four years in different parts of the country to attract national attention to lesser-known games such as handball, water polo and fencing, as well as the more popular sports.

Shamrocks Snap Up Davis

If any club in the Inter-City Lacrosse League is going to benefit from the one-year's leave of absence granted Nanaimo, it would appear to be Victoria Shamrocks.

Shamrocks, with eyes on a Manna Cup final berth, scored a 10-strike yesterday when they corralled Nanaimo's high scoring threesome of Terry Davis, Larry Clarkson and Bill Russell, and also goalkeeper Al Shuker.

Nanaimo recently withdrew from the league because of financial problems and was replaced by Coquitlam Adanacs.

Davis, who lost part of one of his big toes in an accident during the winter, reports that the injury won't hamper his play and he's due to report from his Whistler, Ont. home next Thursday.

Davis was the league's leading point-getter last season, scoring 45 goals and assisting on 63 others for 108 points in 29 games.

Clarkson scored 39 goals in 29 games and assisted on 29 others for 60 points while Russell scored 37 goals.

Shuker gives coach Jim McNeill two top-ranked goalkeepers because Shamrocks already have league all-star Skip Chapman on the roster.

Shamrocks are working out at Oak Bay Junior High School but will move into Memorial Arena at the conclusion of the hockey season.

B.C. Legion Winner

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP)—British Columbia, skippered by Harold Wheeler, won the Royal Canadian Legion national curling championship Friday by defeating Alberta 10-8 in an extra game called to break a tournament deadlock.

Both teams had emerged from the ninth round of regular tournament play with seven wins and two losses, forcing the tie-breaker.

While only a few Canadians can look forward to representing their country in the Olympic and British Empire Games, the federation believes thousands will be able to represent their province in the national competition over the years.

Manitoba Wins Seniors' Bonspiel

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A precise last-rock takeout of a stone half-buried behind a guard gave Leo Johnson of Winnipeg a 10-8 extra-end win over British Columbia in a sudden-death playoff for the first Canadian seniors curling championship Friday night.

The clutch shot climaxed a rally in which the Manitoba skip struck for four on the eighth end to erase a 7-4 lead fashioned by Fred Tilling's rink from Vancouver.

Manitoba 002 020 040 02—10

Johnson beat George Gian-nou of St. John's, Nfld., 9-3 and Tilling took an 11-5 victory over Al Phillips' Toronto rink, representing Ontario, in the final round to finish with 8-2 win-loss records.

Alberta finished with a 7-3 record followed by Prince Edward Island and Ontario with 6-4, New Brunswick and Newfoundland with 5-5, Northern Ontario and Quebec with 4-6, Saskatchewan with 2-8 and Nova Scotia with 0-10.

with a mixed-up group like this make it an Evinrude 40

In every field, there's one product that stands up best. It's usually called the 'workhorse'.

In outboards, this is it! The Evinrude 40. You want to fish. The kids want to ski. How about pleasure boating and a family picnic? And you've got only one outboard. It has to troll. Quietly. It has to tow. Fast. It has to cruise with this sizeable load. All day and tomorrow, too.

Evinrude spends almost as much time inspecting and testing these motors as building them. The result is the kind of reliability that keeps them out of repair shops and running year after year.

There's a choice of push-button Selectric shift, electric starting, or manual. Every Evinrude 40 (and there are three to choose from) has thermostat-controlled engine cooling and the Cruise-Throttle fuel saver, and automatic prop-saving slip clutch.

Evinrude thought of everything when they designed the 40. This motor can take it!

All new Evinrudes use a 50-1 gas/oil mixture. It increases engine life, saves wear and expense.

Check your local dealer (in the Yellow Pages) about the 15 great Evinrude outboards for 35, 40, 50, 55, 60, 70, 80, 90, 100, 115, 130, 150, 175, and 200 h.p.

Fabulous Island Kingdom Calls World Tourists

By GORDON IRVING
ISLE OF MAN, England—The cats have no tails. Palm trees flourish in the warm Gulf Stream air. Horses pull the streetcars as in olden days.

You find these sights—and many more—in this island resort, a tiny vacation spot 10 miles wide by 30 long, and equidistant from England, Scotland and Ireland. This island of paradoxes, which even has its own parliament dating back into history, claims its own income tax laws and has no speed limits.

"We are a kingdom in our own right," a government spokesman told me. "We go back into history over 1,600 years, right to the days of the Viking invasion of Britain. The English Queen Elizabeth is not officially our queen. We give her the title of 'The Lord of Man'."

Catering now to the day-tripper and vacationer, the Isle of Man is said to have existed for more than a century by "exporting kippers and importing trippers."

If you visit here in high summer, choose the fifth of July. That's the date of the age-old Tynwald ceremony, when an open-air parliament is convened atop Tynwald Hill. Here the island's curious laws, enacted during the years, are proclaimed anew in English and in the island language of Manx.

Vacationers are intrigued by the combination of old and new in Douglas, the main town. The narrow 18th century streets remain, and the favorite mode of transport with visitors is the horse-drawn "trot-rack" tramcar.

and bird sanctuary on a former wild and marshy area of 211 acres. Plans are set for the building of a $1,500,000 casino.

The Isle of Man is truly an island "kingdom" that asks to be visited by the world's tourists.

The tempestuous Captain Bligh, of the Hmpty, was married at Ombaa in 1637.

There is a casino for round-the-clock gambling, with restaurant, dancing and cabaret. Hotels and holiday camps abound.

The Manx glens are especially lovely. Bulby Glen, at the base of Scafell, is probably the most magnificent. Most of the glens have the added beauty of waterfalls.

On the west of the island is Peel, home of the famous Manx kippers, cured by smoking over smouldering oak chips.

The island has a population of only 50,000 people. Ready for the 1965 season will be a new $120,000 wild life park times tourists are disturbing to them.

"What is the appropriate clothing in Tahiti?"

Most informal, day and night. Most comfortable I find is very lightweight, washable k h a l pants, aloha shirt and go-ahead slippers. For women, shorts, washable cottons, mumsies. Forget ties, jackets, cocktail dresses.

"We will be in Panama City for three or four days. We do not know what to do but the tour seems to have set up a 'slumming' night club tour."

They set up that "slumming" tour because there isn't anything else. As long as I can remember, Panama City and Colon have been sailors' towns. The night clubs are pretty sad. But, since they set it up, go. What else can you do?

There's an interesting light plane ride out to the San Blas Islands to see the Indians and trade for shells and such. You contact a man named "Jungle Jim" in the lobby of the Panama Hilton.

"I would like to buy a guitar while in Spain. Do you know the best brand?"

The best guitars in Mexico are labeled "Valencia type." So maybe the best guitars are from Valencia, Spain.

"We would like to rent a car and drive up to Dublin as we have three days until our plane leaves."

Then you don't want the direct route—it's only three hours or so. And not a pretty or interesting road. Drive north along the coast to Galway. One leisurely day. Next day drive across Ireland to Dublin, another leisurely day. Both are colorful drives. Green country. White sheep. Grey, ruined castles. And you should see some "fairy rings" en route.

At Shannon airport, you should find a rather thick paper-

Tips for Travellers

"Are there any camping sites in Mexico for a six-week trip via Mexico City, Oaxaco and Yucatan? And would it be safe?"

"I've never seen any formal camp-sites anywhere in Mexico. But most of Mexico is unfenced. And the beaches are deserted and open. Main problem, I think, would be carrying enough bottled water."

As to safety, I would be cautious enough to camp close to tourist centers. Along the tourist route, Mexico is accustomed to you. But you can go off the highway and find very primitive people — speaking Indian dialects instead of Spanish. Some-

Sail away to an Alaska campground
(That couple did—for only $153—car and all!)

They cruised for 30 hours on one of Alaska's smart state ferries from Prince Rupert, British Columbia to this campground near Haines. En route, they visited Ketchikan, Wrangell, Petersburg and Juneau. Rest of the time they just dined, slept and loafed around the decks.

Right now they are camping on Lynn Canal along the Haines link to the Alaska Highway. They are trying to decide whether to make a sidetrip to see the old Russian church at Sitka. Or maybe drive to Mount McKinley National Park, Fairbanks and Anchorage. There they could take a ferry to Kodiak Island, where the world's biggest bears live. Or should they head off another ferry and ride a few hours up Lynn Canal to Skagway? There they can ride — car and all — on a narrow gauge railroad over the Gold Rush Trail to Whitehorse. And from there they can drive the Alaska Highway to Mount McKinley National Park, Fairbanks and Anchorage. And there—sw, come on, why not go fishing today and make up your minds tomorrow?

Want us to help make up your mind about this trip to Alaska via the Marine Highway? Just write Alaska Travel Division, Box AG, Juneau, Alaska, or see your travel agent.

Work Suspended On Poison Well

EDSON, Alta. (CP)—Pumping operations to seal off a dangerous gas well were temporarily suspended Friday while crews continued other work.

The crews were steaming off caked-on mud from the well assembly so that another blowout preventer could be applied.

The crews succeeded Thursday in closing off valves and stopping all above-ground leakage.

Crusade Plans Started

Churches Co-operate for Big September Event

A five-month preparatory campaign will be launched Monday for the Leighton Ford Victoria Crusade to take place Sept. 5 to 19 in Memorial Arena.

Leighton Ford is a Presbyterian minister from Canada, the brother-in-law of Billy Graham and one of the leaders of the Graham Crusades.

All Victoria ministers and leading laymen have been invited to a strategy conference at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Kirk Hall of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

On Tuesday Crusade offices will open in the Bental Building, 1080 Douglas, to be staffed by five full-time workers. Many more volunteers will be engaged in literature distribution and phone call work.

RUITE DONATED

The 1200 square feet of space in Suite 280 on the second floor have been donated to the Crusade workers by the owners of the building.

Paul Leonard of the Crusade team will arrive in Victoria from the United States late Monday night. He will be here for two months to conduct classes in Christian witness and counselling.

SIX-WEEK COURSES

Six-week courses will be given in three churches. The purpose of the classes is to prepare volunteers for the work of contacting individuals in the community to interest them in attendance at the Crusade and also to act as co-workers for those who are "saved" at the meetings.

The chairman of the Leighton Ford Victoria Crusade, Chaplain C. E. Waite, said that 90 per cent of the value of the campaign would be the result of the participation of local Christians and 10 per cent from the two-week Crusade itself.

Vice-chairmen are Rev. H. Gordon Walker of St. David by-the-Sea; Dr. H. W. Kerley, Fairfield United and Dr. J. L. W. McLean, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

COUNCIL PRESIDENT

Dr. McLean is also president of the Victoria Council of Churches.

Secretary is Joseph Hitchen of the Brethren. Treasurer is M. Frank Hunter, city clerk and member of Fairfield United. Finance chairman is Charles Elington, a notary public and member of the Brethren.

EACH BRING ONE

In charge of Operation Andrew is Rev. Eric A. Hornby, Glad Tidings Pentecostal. The title of his committee is based on Andrew's bringing of his brother Simon to Christ. "Each one bring one" is the modern adaptation of Andrew's act.

Youth chairman is B. Frank Peters, a member of Central Baptist. In charge of students, high school and university, is Dr. J. J. Krayenhoff of the Brethren.

Ushers: Lt.-Cmdr. J. Norman Burke, a member of Central Baptist; Follow-up (for those who make any kind of commitment): Rev. A. C. Hamill, Emmanuel Baptist.

CO-OPERATION

Prayer Committee: Pastor R. D. Holmes, Central Baptist; Arrangements Committee (meeting facilities, arrangements for out-of-town guests, speakers at clubs): Ernie Hudson, Glad Tidings Pentecostal member.

Dr. S. J. Parsons, Centennial United, and Percy Willis, marine mission, are ex-officio executive committee members.

"There is nothing in Victoria's history to compare with the inter-church co-operation and concerted effort involved in this project," said Chaplain Waite.

World Hurrying to Its End

By IAN ARBOL

Last Sunday I went to the 7:30 p.m. service of Glad Tidings Pentecostal Church, 942 North Park, and Wednesday, visited with the minister, Rev. Eric A. Hornby.

"This world is hastening unto its end," said Mr. Hornby Sunday.

"The day of the last battle will arrive when the anti-Christ has assembled and marshalled his armies. Then Christ will come back with the armies of heaven. Only the true followers shall abide to be with Christ in his reign on earth."

Hornby

In addition to the Pentecostal message, there is the Pentecostal experience.

The message is preached to 500 members and adherents each week at Glad Tidings and 11 other Pentecostal Assemblies on Vancouver Island, including, in Victoria, the Chinese Pentecostal, 800 Princess, with Rev. Howard Ha; the North Douglas Pentecostal, Douglas and Canterbury, with Rev. Clifford Fawcett, and the Royal Oak Gospel Chapel, with Rev. Marvin Stoner.

In B.C. there are 106 Pentecostal churches, in Canada, 700, with a combined membership close to 100,000.

The Pentecostal experience is said by members to be that described in Acts 2:4 — "And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance."

Mr. Hornby refers to the gift of tongues as "an indication of God's presence in a supernatural way, equipping the believer with the power for Christian service."

The gift of tongues is described by the Encyclopedia Britannica as "a faculty of abnormal and inarticulate utterance, under stress of religious excitement, which was believed and, most of all, is a sign of God's presence to convince all of the reality of God."

"If exercised in the church, the speaking must be accompanied by an interpreter so all might receive the benefit. The speaking is in orderly fashion, one at a time and by two or three at the most in each service."

Whereas speaking in tongues (the baptism of the Spirit) is distinctive in Pentecostal Churches, Mr. Hornby emphasized "the central theme" of his church as belief "in the divine inspiration and infallibility of the Bible."

"We believe Jesus Christ is indeed the Son of God, conceived of the Holy Ghost and born of a virgin. He died to make atonement for the sins of the whole world and rose again that we might be justified in believing this."

The Pentecostal Church originated in the 20th century and Mr. Hornby believes its mission will be completed in this century with the arrival of Christ, who will rule over the earth for 1,000 years.

Before the millennium of peace will be the war of Armageddon.

Mr. Hornby believes the conditions are being set for Armageddon.

"This is an age of glorifying the man," he told his Sunday night congregation.

He sees, on one hand, the philosophy of the Communists that life is material and to be understood through the process of human reason, human logic.

"This view is diametrically opposed to the Christian philosophy—the realm of the spirit. Our age will lead into the supreme glorifying of a man by men and he will be the Anti-Christ."

Concerning the battle to come, when "the sun shall be turned into darkness and the moon into blood" with fire and vaporous smoke over the world, Mr. Hornby said, "Now, some would think that Jesus was just a gentle man of peace."

"Certainly the doctrine that was taught was the establishment of peace in the human heart between God and man and among mankind, but Christ came to teach the earth is going to pass away. It will come to nothing."

"The world is at war with the church and Jesus said, 'Think not that I am come to send peace on the earth. I came not to send peace but a sword.' The world will be burned up with fire."

"Those who have placed their hope in Christ will come into their own at that time."

Economy Slackens

GENEVA (UPI)—Western Europe's economy is expected to expand less this year than it did in 1964, the United Nations economic commission for Europe reported Friday.

In its report for 1964, the commission noted that Britain's rapid pace of expansion "came to a temporary halt."

while west European economies generally continued to expand.

The commission said growth rates in western Europe were much the same as in the past four or five years.

The gross national product of the region grew by about three per cent, it said.

"But two qualifications are needed," the report said.

SLACKENING

"First, there were clear signs of a slackening of activity in many countries as the year progressed. Second, a marked divergence between countries became evident."

The growth of demand and output in Italy and France was halted by stabilization measures while in most other countries the growth of demand tended to strain resources, it said.

PERSISTENT WEAKNESS

"For the United Kingdom, the problem is to correct the persistent weakness of the balance of payments without damaging the prospects for sustained growth," the report said.

The commission said it can be assumed British import restrictions cannot be maintained for too long and that if the value of sterling is to be maintained "the only way open is to secure the same effects indirectly by deflation of domestic demand."

The only way for Britain to boom, however, is to increase exports, the report said.

Names in the News

Outliving Witnesses Frees Convict

PHILADELPHIA — A 75-year-old convict is a free man because he outlived prosecution witnesses and outlasted records of his 27-year-old case. Ailing James Madden, a former Philadelphia who has spent most of the time since 1938 in prison in Pittsburgh, won freedom at a three-minute new trial. He was convicted as a safecracker without benefit of counsel in 1938.

Both sides rested their cases and Judge Bernard Kelley told Madden he was a free man. Assistant District Attorney James Moran explained he was unable to present evidence because witnesses were not available and records of Madden's case had been destroyed or lost over the years. Madden, suffering from heart trouble and with cataracts on both eyes, told the judge he did not want to go "back on the street" because he needed medical attention. The judge ordered Madden sent to Philadelphia General Hospital.

LOS ANGELES — Actor-agent Michael Wilding has settled a $3,000,000 libel suit against Hollywood columnist Hedda Hopper. His lawyer said Wilding sued Miss Hopper and a publishing firm, Doubleday and Company, alleging she included false statements about him in her book, The Whole Truth and Nothing But the Truth.

LONDON — The Duchess of Windsor shopped for a pug dog, but did not buy one. She said that her husband, the Duke, "is afraid I will buy a houseful." Queen Elizabeth paid her second call on the Duke and Duchess since her uncle came to England for a series of eye operations. The Queen spent about 45 minutes drinking tea with the Windsors in their suite at Claridges Hotel.

PARIS — Self-styled French biologist Gilbert Nascosa has returned from Canada to face trial on charges of illegally practicing medicine and pharmacy. He claimed to have a cure for cancer and leukemia.

SAN FRANCISCO — Senator Edward Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat, accepted the San Francisco Press Club's first annual award for communications, given posthumously to his brother, the late president, for "outstanding contributions toward better understanding among peoples through mass communications."

BEVERLY HILLS — Pierre Salinger, former California senator and press secretary to Presidents Johnson and Kennedy, has hired a trucking firm to move his belongings here from Falls Church, Va. Bekins Van and Storage said the truck driver would be L. B. Johnson.

MOSCOW — William Kuchin, head of the Canadian Communist Party, and Nigel Morgan, member of the party national executive committee, left Moscow by plane for home.

ADDIS ABABA — Information Minister Mekesse Hailu told a press conference the border with Somali Republic has been closed as a reprisal for continued Somali propaganda against Ethiopia.

KINGSTON, Jamaica — Prime Minister Sir Alexander Bustamante, 81, has suffered a second stroke.

Windfall Probe

Mine Director Tried to Spike Mineral Rumors

TORONTO (CP)—A director of Windfall Oils and Mines Limited said Friday he was asked whether he wanted to resign last July when he suggested the company should clear up rumors about Windfall's drilling results on a property near Timmins, Ont.

T. F. C. Cole told a royal commission that on July 9 he heard rumors from two sources that Windfall had found copper and zinc values in its drill core.

He said he called Viola MacMillan, Windfall promoter and wife of company President George MacMillan, and suggested that the company should depart from normal procedure and have an assay done on the first 570 feet of the Windfall core.

Mr. Cole said: "She asked me if I would like to resign. She said she saw no reason to depart from normal procedures."

Mr. Cole wrote his resignation that day but did not tender it.

ON THE VERGE

Mr. Cole, also the MacMillans' solicitor, said he "didn't want to be in a position of alienating a client who might have been on the verge of finding another Texas Gulf Sulphur."

Texas Gulf made a $2,000,000 copper-silver-zinc strike on a property 4½ miles from the Windfall property.

The royal commission was established under Mr. Justice Kelly of the Ontario Court of Appeal to discover what made shares of Windfall rise to $5.60 from 56 cents and then plunge to 80 cents.

Voting Probe Begins

VANCOUVER (CP) — Edward A. Anglin, assistant chief electoral officer, testified Thursday that mistakes found on federal voters' lists could be the result of deliberate cheating.

Mr. Anglin was testifying before Mr. Justice Nathan Nemets of the B.C. Supreme Court, appointed by the government to investigate charges of alleged irregularities in federal voting procedures.

Mr. Anglin also said fictitious or non-existent addresses could come about through the stupidity of enumerators or by mistakes when transcribing the original notes to lists or again to printed lists.

HUMAN ERRORS

"There might be gremlins who would convert the number 1079 to 1179," he said. "There are human errors which might crop up."

Mr. Ormond Turner, Vancouver Province columnist, testified that apart from the reference in his columns about the possible involvement of unions, most of his information was supplied by Morland T. Brown, a Coquitlam druggist.

Mr. Turner told the court Mr. Brown was the poll captain who he had quoted as having found dozens of duplicated names on a voters list April 9, 1963, the day after the last federal election.

One of the addresses given on a Vancouver voters' list proved to be a public school.

Soviet Output Up Slightly

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The UN statistical bulletin reported Friday that gross industrial production in the Soviet Union last year rose less than in the two previous years. The industrial production index went up 11 index points to 169 per cent of the 1956 level, compared with 12 index points in 1963 and 13.8 in 1962.

Her car went out of control, crossed the oncoming lane of traffic, jumped a ditch and hit a fence before stopping.

Mrs. Shillito was admitted to Rest Haven Hospital for observation.

Fight May Cost Life Term

Parolee Convicted of Punching Woman in Face

By GEOFFREY MINIM

An assault conviction Friday in Esquimalt magistrate's court sent a parolee back to prison to face the prospect of a lifetime behind bars.

Denis Charles O'Brien, 500 Dupplin, had pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm laid after a fracas in the kitchen of a house on Park Terrace Feb. 21.

At the time of the incident O'Brien was on parole, having been convicted in 1953 as an habitual criminal and sentenced then to an indeterminate period in prison.

Defence counsel William Moresby told Magistrate William Oulter that conviction on the assault charge would mean life imprisonment for O'Brien, whose parole had been revoked when the charge was laid.

At an earlier hearing, Mrs. Victoria Linton, 732 Wilson, testified she had been sitting in the kitchen when O'Brien came in and started to molest her. She said she slapped O'Brien and he "went wild."

PUNCHED TWICE

He punched her in the face, knocking her down. She got up and was floored by a second punch. Then O'Brien knocked her husband down.

She later received three stitches for a cut over her right eye that had been caused by the punch, she said.

O'Brien testified Mrs. Linton had given him a couple of "roundhouse blows" and he had pushed her away to defend himself.

BEER BOTTLE

In a fight that followed involving himself, Mrs. Linton's husband, and the man who owned the house, he had seen Mrs. Linton coming at him with a beer bottle, so he "clobbered" her on the nose, he said.

Among the prosecution witnesses was the 13-year-old daughter of the household, who had watched the fracas.

Amid all the conflicting testimony, said Magistrate Oulter, it was his opinion that "with this unhappy little child we have got at the truth."

The girl had not actually seen Mrs. Linton being hit by O'Brien, but she had seen him pulling his flat back a split-second before the first blow was struck.

O'Brien had been in a difficult situation, the magistrate said. The woman had been drinking. He was abusive and foul-mouthed toward him, and had slapped his face.

Anyone assaulted was entitled to use a reasonable amount of force in self-defence, but O'Brien had employed more than was necessary.

He should have just pushed her away, as he had claimed to have done, and then walked out of the kitchen.

Before sentence was passed, Crown Prosecutor John McIlreath said O'Brien's previous convictions included one for robbery with violence and two for assault occasioning bodily harm.

The magistrate sentenced O'Brien to three months, saying: "I think there was substantial provocation."

The question of whether O'Brien would now have to remain in prison for life is a matter for the parole board to decide, he told Mr. Moresby.

to use a reasonable amount of force in self-defence, but O'Brien had employed more than was necessary.

He should have just pushed her away, as he had claimed to have done, and then walked out of the kitchen.

Before sentence was passed, Crown Prosecutor John McIlreath said O'Brien's previous convictions included one for robbery with violence and two for assault occasioning bodily harm.

The magistrate sentenced O'Brien to three months, saying: "I think there was substantial provocation."

The question of whether O'Brien would now have to remain in prison for life is a matter for the parole board to decide, he told Mr. Moresby.

So Much to Buy!

Hungarian Visitor Finds Canada 'Astonishing'

By MAUREEN DUFFUS

Mrs. Janos Bocsik comes from a country where university education is free to all, but oranges are so rare and expensive they are bought one at a time to be shared by the whole family.

She is one of a growing number of Hungarians visiting relatives in Canada, now that travel restrictions have been reduced to a minimum.

"In some ways conditions are better at home," Mrs. Bocsik said. "You can buy things now. Food and clothes are there in the shops, but they are so expensive."

A good suit or coat, for example, costs $40, but as the average monthly wage is from $10 to $60, most people still make their own clothes by hand—sewing machines are difficult to buy.

"Although university students pay no fees, they must buy their own books. These and ordinary living expenses make it necessary for most students to work. Few parents can afford to support their children at university," Mrs. Bocsik said.

Her daughter was studying to be a doctor, but had to work at two jobs in order to make ends meet. This left so little time for studying, she was forced to leave university at least temporarily.

If it weren't for her daughter, Mrs. Bocsik would like to stay in Canada, which she finds astonishing. Some of her first reactions were:

—Is that house really just for one family?

—All those cars, and women driving them!

—But you can buy anything (in a department store).

A serving of chicken-in-a-basket at a drive-in struck Mrs. Bocsik as being hysterically funny. "It would serve a whole family at home!"

When she was a young girl in the small village of Harta, near the Danube in southern Hungary, Mrs. Bocsik had always wanted to come to America, as did most of her friends. But her father wouldn't permit it.

It took a war, a Communist victory, a revolution, and a son emigrating to Canada to bring about this ambition.

She is now very much enjoying her stay with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Bocsik, and at John's request is teaching her Canadian daughter-in-law to cook Hungarian meals.

Under extreme conditions, John finds it possible to eat bland Canadian food—but he'd rather not.

So Mrs. Bocsik—known as "Anyuka"—is demonstrating how to make cabbage rolls cooked in sauerkraut; veal in paprika sauce; Hungarian meat loaf; vegetables cooked in fat; cookies filled with fruit and nuts, and other delicious, highly flavored foods.

"The secret seems to be fantastic amounts of paprika and garlic," says Mrs. Bocsik Jr., watching in amazement.

There is hope in local Hungarian circles, too, that Anyuka will be able to teach someone how to make her delectable Hungarian liqueur. She was able to bring only one basket-

Dear Ann Landers: I am 17 and pregnant. I am not married. The man I am in love with is 30 years old and married.

I live in the same block with the man and his wife. She does not know that the baby I am expecting is her husband's. To her I am just a kid. I've told everyone the boy responsible for my condition is in the navy and that he would come home and marry me if I wanted him to, but I don't love him. Even my folks believe this.

Last week my sweetheart's wife had a confidential talk with me. She sobbed out her story—she can't have any children and both she and her husband want to adopt my baby. I was stunned. I told her I would think it over.

Now I'm confused and terribly hurt. He wants the baby, but he doesn't want me enough to divorce his wife so we can be married.

I need your advice because I keep changing my mind every 15 minutes. Please tell me what to do.—LOST NANETTE.

Dear Nanette: I believe it would be a tragic mistake to turn your baby over to your lover and his wife. The agony of watching the child grow up may be more than you could bear. This couple should adopt through legitimate channels if they want a child. You will curse the day that you agreed to a plan which would link you forever with a man who should be put out of your life.

Dear Ann Landers: I read that letter about the husband who was dressed up in his good suit and wanted his wife to change the tire because she was in blue jeans.

Your answer was terrible. If that had been my wife I would have given her a swift kick in the Levis and left her with the car and the flat tire to figure things out for herself.

It makes me mad the way women today want to drive cars, buses, trucks, and taxis. Fly airplanes, be lawyers and doctors and run for President of the United States, but they don't want to do any of the side work that may be connected with the job. I say nobody should get behind the wheel of a car if he isn't willing to change a tire.

I work in a post office that has put on several women in the past few years. These women get the same pay as men but they don't go near the 80-pound sacks because a law says they don't have to pick up anything heavier than 40 pounds. Is this fair? How about airing it in your column?—PEOPLEWITHHEM.

Dear Fed: Kwitchebelly-achin. The law you are complaining about doesn't exist.

According to the U.S. post office in Chicago, people are hired to do a job for which they are qualified and the sex of the applicant is not a consideration. The female carriers lug 80-

Design to Shorten Time in Training

An expert in the field of nursing education, Dr. Helen K. Mussallem, executive director of the Canadian Nurses Association, is here to speak on her favorite subject at a meeting of the Greater Victoria District of the RNABC. The meeting will be held in the McPherson Playhouse today.

We have a design aimed at improving nursing and health services, says Dr. Mussallem. Problems, at this time, must be solved by all nurses working together. Action must take place at the local level, she went on.

The National Executive may only suggest—acceptance must come from the people in the working situation before the design can move forward, the director said.

Two major changes proposed by the Royal Commission on Health Services embrace two separate educational programs.

One would be located in University Schools for Nurses and would aim at education on the leadership level. About 25 per cent of the nursing staff would be prepared to take posts as head nurses, supervisors, teachers, administrators, etc.

At this level, academic and clinical education would be 50 per cent for each. And the time spent on this training would be a minimum of four years.

At present there are only 14 universities in Canada that include schools of nursing and the Commission recommended that this number be increased to 24 by 1971. It was also recommended that one be established at the University of Victoria.

In the second category where three quarters of the nursing population fall, the time for training would be shortened from three to two years. This educational program would be for the clinical or bedside nurse.

Dr. Mussallem says that the experiment in Windsor proved that the time cut could be made when the basic principles were taught first.

Explaining more fully she

said, "When I was in training I must have made 1,000 beds. Ten would have done. The same for operating room experience. I attended at least 50 appendectomies when I'm sure 10 would have sufficed."

Dr. Mussallem had four overseas assignments last year. As chairman of the first Scientific Group on Nursing Research, sponsored by the World Health Organization, she was in Geneva last November. In this group were two other nurses, one from Nigeria and the other from India, two doctors, from England and Greece and a social scientist from Israel.

The most important finding at this meeting was that true advances in medicine are not fully realized unless the nurse is capable of interpreting this advance. It is imperative that a nurse fully understand the procedure to take in new medical treatment.

Dr. Mussallem also acted as nursing consultant to a group sponsored by WHO at an international school of advanced nursing education at the University of Edinburgh.

Last April and May saw Dr. Mussallem in Lebanon at the request of the government to act as nursing consultant in a survey of the 11 schools of nursing in the land of her ancestors.

Then to the Caribbean for a two-month survey of the 22 schools of nursing in the islands. She will go back this August to assist in evaluating these schools.

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

By DOROTHY WROTNOWSKI

There never seems to be any letup in the busy schedule maintained by Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes. On Monday His Honor will be in Vancouver to attend a luncheon at the Bayshore Inn when Sen. George Murphy of California will be guest speaker. Supt. J. Atherton will accompany His Honor to the luncheon to be given by the Radio and Television Executives Club.

Both the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes will go to Kelowna on Wednesday where they will attend the opening night of the Dominion Drama Festival.

Enjoying the sunny spring weather here—the weather that was I mean—were Lt.-Col. and Mrs. F. N. Owens who have now returned to their home in Toronto. They were here to visit Mrs. Owens' mother, Mrs. E. C. Cowdry, who is just back to the White House after wintering in Hawaii, and her brother-in-law and sister, Major and Mrs. F. G. Baxter, who have only recently come to live in Victoria on Lansdowne Road.

First Time in Florida

Enthusiastic is probably too mild a word to use about the way Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Holker feel about their first trip to Florida. Back at their Killarney Place home they are reminiscing about the wonderful time they had at the Golden Beach home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Arnold, former Victorians now living in the south.

The Arnolds have a yacht and took the Holkers on trips through the Everglades, Pompano and just sight-seeing. It was so beautiful and peaceful that the Holkers, I have an idea, are already making plans for next winter's holiday.

From Florida the Holkers flew to Montego Bay in Jamaica then over to Ocho Rios where they were at the Sans Souci for a few days. They were also in Kingston and at Nassau.

Mr. Holker says he couldn't help wondering about the hundreds of young men idling by the roadside as they took drives around the islands.

Party at Castle

The Castle at Royal Roads will be alight next Wednesday evening for the party to be given by Royal Roads commandant, Capt. W. F. Hayes and Mrs. Hayes.

Away Six Months

It is a bon voyage party that Mrs. Nona Basanta is giving tonight in her Dyar Road home for Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Salomon who are leaving soon for a trip to the Old Country, their first trip back since coming here in 1937.

Mr. Salomon is retiring from active business—he is a photographer—specializing mostly in hand-painted view photographs. The Salomons will leave here early in April to visit a nephew in Kenora, Ont., before sailing in the Empress of England on the 15th. Their headquarters will be at Pailton, Devonshire, while away. They intend returning here next October.

Steak, Butter and Cream

When those thin, cold little snowflakes started fluttering down about noon yesterday, Dr. Helen Mussallem went to her window at the Empress and said "Oh, I know this is just for me." The executive director of the Canadian Registered Nurses' Association left Ottawa in a snowstorm, came down in a blizzard at Toronto, more snow in Winnipeg, 20 below in Saskatoon and daffodils in Vancouver.

But I didn't bring up Helen Mussallem's name because of nursing or the weather, either. Something much more interesting to a lot of us.

Helen did a lot of travelling last year, ending up 20 pounds overweight. Between the first week in September and the middle of December she lost the whole 20. It just dropped off, she says.

OK. Anyone can diet or can they? Helen DID NOT count calories. She went on a high fat and high protein diet and cut carbohydrates to the bone. No starch, no sugar.

For the first two weeks nothing happened. Then away it started and down she went to her normal weight.

According to Helen, you can have all the steak, chicken and cheese you want. All the whipped cream and butter, too. And if you must have the odd potato, the best way is to lather it with butter, or better still, French fried.

She said it, I didn't. She lost the weight, too. I almost forgot, only water in your whisky. I'm still quoting.

More important, I almost forgot that you have to take a certain amount of exercise on this type of diet. Helen swims in her apartment pool almost every night (not strenuously). If she hasn't time for a swim she walks the eight flights up to her apartment.

It is happy birthday to Doreen Wallace today.

Actress at Harvard

Lee Remick, star of the film The Days of Wine and Roses, has been nominated woman of the year by the Hasty Pudding Club of Harvard University.

Club Urges Creation Of Bureau

Mrs. Lois Haggen, MLA, who is a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Grand Forks, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club. She spoke of duties and obligations of women in public life.

Following this, reference was made to the recent appointment by the provincial government of Mrs. Christine Waddell as industrial relations officer in the labor conciliation section of the government.

It was pointed out that there is as yet no women's bureau connected with the labor department and a resolution was passed urging creation of such a bureau.

The resolution will be presented to the annual meeting of provincial business and Professional Women's Clubs to be held at Pinewood in May, with the request that the provincial board present a brief to the government to implement this recommendation.

Mrs. Haggen To Speak

NANAIMO—MLA Mrs. Lois Haggen (NDP) the only woman member of the Legislative Assembly will speak to a joint meeting of three women's service clubs here Sunday.

The special luncheon at the residence is being sponsored by the local branch of the Business and Professional Women's Association. Members of Altruism and Soroptomists will also attend.

TV TALK

By BRUCE LOWTHER

WMAQ-TV in Chicago recently snagged a lucrative order from the Alabama state bureau of publicity and information for 10 commercials plugging the state as a fishery and vacation paradise, and timed to coincide with a huge Chicago boat show.

They started first thing March 8, showing Gov. George Wallace in a fishing boat describing Alabama's "historical attractions, beautiful camping grounds, picture book features," Alabama as a "peaceful place for a vacation," said the commercials, which ended with a jingle: "Fun Day, Fun Day... in beautiful, friendly Alabama."

Most ran just ahead of Wallace's state troopers beating Negroes in the bloody Selma mess the day before.

"Hold it, dear—those wavy lines didn't mean anything—it was just an accidental stomach!"

Cultural Gap Unbridged

Education TV Lacks Sense of Direction

By ARTHUR MCKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Educational television in the United States after more than a decade is "still far behind what we have expected of it," says an American communications authority.

Much more money and a clear sense of direction are necessary, Chairman E. William Henry of the Federal Communications Commission writes in American Education, organ of the Federal Education Office. He says commercial TV has left a cultural gap to be bridged.

Educational television—known as ETV—began May, 1953, from the University of Houston and there are almost 100 such purely educational stations in existence today.

Henry says there may easily be more than 200 by 1971. Yet in the funds available for ETV and the lack of good programming at hours best suited to the broadcast possible public impact, ETV has not lived up to its original promise "as the greatest medium for communications since Johann Gutenberg invented movable type 500 years ago."

The federal government provides funds on a matching basis to cover station construction costs, which accounts for much of the expansion in facilities. Congress so far has appropriated $21,000,000 and another $5,000,000 in the works.

REGULATORY FIELD

This aspect is perfectly satisfactory, says Henry, whose commission is official U.S. communications watchdog, roughly comparable in the broadcasting field to the Board of Broadcast Governors in Canada.

That commission has set aside more than 300 ETV channels and in 1962 legislation was passed to ensure that all TV sets be manufactured with facilities to tap these channels.

Hence, audience potential was advanced into the millions. Henry's main point of concern is that while TV has a great role to play in academic instructional work, a much broader audience from children to adults must be reached in the next decade.

He says: "ETV has a vital contribution to make to American television—a medium whose staggering impact on our society we but dimly comprehend. We know that more families own television sets than own bathtubs."

"We know that children up to the age of 12 average as much time in front of those television sets as they do in school."

"These statistics do not tell us what the effect of the television revolution will be. But they force us to presume that its importance for the quality and content of our daily lives will be overwhelming."

Bluntly, Henry says there is a void to be filled in commercial U.S. television.

"Our commercial system, supported as it is by advertisers' dollars, severely limits the scope of the medium's performance. Mass popularity of its programs, as measured by telephone interviews and the rating services, spells advertisers' dollars. With a few exceptions, this governs and controls the medium."

Vote Conspiracy

Union Official To Be Called At Hearing

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver union official who is alleged to have admitted knowledge of a fraudulent voters' list conspiracy, is to be called before the Nemetz commission on election list practices.

This was disclosed Friday by C. C. Locke, commission counsel, as an inquiry continued to allegations of voting irregularities in B.C. during the 1963 federal election.

Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz, appointed a special commissioner, is conducting the inquiry.

RCMP INVESTIGATE

Mr. Locke also told the inquiry that the RCMP are investigating allegations of irregularities. He said the first phase of the inquiry will be halted temporarily while the RCMP investigate "certain information."

"Results of the police work could provide significant information for the inquiry," Mr. Locke said.

COLUMNIST CALLED

Ormond Turner, columnist for the Province, Vancouver's morning daily newspaper whose stories promoted the inquiry, was taken sentence-by-sentence through his articles.

He was questioned at length by Mr. Locke about a column published Feb. 22. The first paragraph read:

"A local union official has privately admitted that at least six B.C. unions have conspired to get NDP candidates elected fraudulently by entering fictitious names on the voters' lists."

Innkeepers, Hotels Form Group

Victoria division of the Innkeepers of B.C. has merged with the Victoria division of the B.C. Hotels Association, to form a new division of the BCHA.

At the new division's first meeting earlier this week, J. G. Flowers, Ingraham Hotel manager, was elected division president. Ken King, Hotel Douglas manager, is secretary, and Frank Burger, King's Hotel manager and James Neely, a Hotel Douglas managing director, are zone directors.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — Famine threatens the 5,000 residents of a Yugoslav town cut off by huge snowdrifts for almost three months, the official news agency Tanjug said Thursday.

The town of Savnik, reachable only by ski for the past 28 days, is dangerously short of flour, lard, salt, sugar and many other essentials.

Mr. Turner said he had not obtained this information directly from the union official but from a third party.

Mr. Locke told Mr. Justice Nemetz that the name of the union official concerned was known to him and that the official and the third party involved would be called before the inquiry to give evidence.

B.C. Man Honored By Queen

OTTAWA (CP) — Sgt. J. W. Wills, 44, of Vedder Crossing, B.C., has received the Queen's commendation for brave conduct for saving a soldier's life at grenade-throwing exercises, the defence department announced today.

Last Aug. 19 Sgt. Wills, an instructor at the Royal Canadian School of Military Engineering at Chilliwack, picked up a hand grenade that had been dropped by a young recruit after the safety pin was removed accidentally. He threw the grenade over a safety wall, where it exploded seconds later.

Fire Destroys Hotel One Man Perishes

EDMONTON (CP)—One man burned to death and more than 80 other people fled in night attire into below-zero temperatures at 12:30 a.m. Friday as fire swept a three-storey hotel in downtown Ed- monton.

The 65-room Roseberry Hotel, built more than 50 years ago, was believed a total loss. The building was assessed at $140,000.

Police said the body of Tom Dunbar, 32, was found in a third-floor room of the frame-and-brick hotel at 10142 105 Street, half a block from Ed- monton's main east-west busi- ness thoroughfare.

Several people living in the hotel, many of whom were welfare recipients or pension- ers, suffered minor injuries.

Some jumped from second- floor windows or climbed down fire ladders, but most left by the front door. The majority saved only what per- sonal belongings they could carry.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Esquimalt-based ocean-escort HMCS Jonquiere plowed into Pier 1 at the Ferry Building Friday while attempting to berth for a weekend visit.

A gaping gash was torn in the bow of the ship but none of the 140 officers and men aboard was injured.

(An Esquimalt naval spokesman said an investigation is underway to determine the extent of the damage to the ship and the dock.)

UP TO $20,000

Port Authority officials estimated pier damage may run to $20,000.

Dr. O. E. Ault, Canadian consul-general, said the Jonquiere would be given temporary repairs here and then would return to Canada for permanent repair.

The Jonquiere arrived in San Francisco with a sister ship, HMCS St. Therese, and the Pacific Command submarine HMCS Grille.

CITY OF INDUSTRY, Calif. (UPI) — Federal agents late Friday seized 373 machine guns, some of which "were intended for private armies in California." It was reported to be the largest seizure of weapons in the state's history.

The automatic weapons and a silencer were seized at the Ensign Arms Co. in this Los Angeles County industrial community.

Lynch recently proposed legislation urging the outlawing of extremist organizations.

Civil Rights Murder

Klansmen Trio Free
On $150,000 Bail

From UPI, AP

Three of four Ku Klux Klansmen arrested Friday by FBI agents for the highway ambush slaying of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo near Montgomery were released in $50,000 bond each the same day, apparently with money raised by Klan officials.

The body of Mrs. Liuzzo, first white woman to die in the Negro voting rights movement, was flown Friday night back to her home in Detroit, aboard an airplane sent by the Teamsters Union of which Mrs. Liuzzo is an official.

All three were released in the custody of their attorney, Matt Murphy, and Robert Shelton, Imperial Grand Wizard of the United Klans of America.

Still in custody was Willie Leroy Wilkin Jr., 21, of Fairfield, Ala. Authorities said he was on probation for carrying a sawed-off shotgun and would have to appear in court before he could be freed.

The four were charged in the Birmingham County courthouse with conspiracy in Thursday night's slaying of the vivacious white civil rights worker.

Alabama Atty.-Gen. Richmond Flowers later said he will ask for first degree murder charges to be filed against the four men.

"There will be no sweeping under the rug or whitewashing of this case. We will ask for the maximum penalty if we get the evidence," Flowers said.

President Johnson, his voice choked with emotion, went before a national television audience shortly after noon to announce the arrests and personally identify the suspects.

Correspondent Reports:
Red Missile Launchers
Under Sea Off Cuba

MIAMI (UPI) — A veteran news correspondent said Friday night the United States has evidence that the Soviet Union may be building underwater long-range missile launchers off the southern coast of Cuba.

Jay Mallin of Miami, a correspondent for Time magazine, said there has been "mysterious construction work carried out at a point in the sea between Cuba itself and the Isle of Pines."

Mallin said the underwater work has been "photographed by reconnaissance planes of the Strategic Air Command that fly over Cuba periodically."

American experts who have studied the pictures are "puzzled" by them but believe the work may involve either of two projects, Mallin said.

He identified these as underwater submarine pens, or underwater launchers capable of firing long-range missiles.

MPs Honor 25-Year Men

OTTAWA (CP) — Members on both sides of the Commons paid warm tribute Friday to five members of the House celebrating their 25th consecutive year in the Commons.

Prime Minister Pearson sent each a red carnation.

Speaker Alan Macnaughton began by saying the most difficult task for any Speaker is "naming" a member—the step taken in expelling an MP from the House. But he would name five members as long as the House would "waive the provisions" of the expulsion rule.

He then named Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, 60, Privy Council President McRath, 56, L. Elston Cardiff (PC—Huron), 76, Raymond Eudes (L—Montreal Hochelaga), 52, and George E. Nixon (L—Algoma West), 67. All were elected March 26, 1940.

Members on both sides joined in applause as the names were given out.

Mr. Pearson hoped there would be no request for the members to withdraw.

"If they have offended by being here for 25 years I am sure they will not do it again," he added with a grin across the aisle at Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Pearson echoed the Speaker's words about Mr. Diefenbaker being "one of the great parliamentarians in our history."

Then he drew laughter by asking: "What would this House of

Noose Dangles on Desk
As Ouster Bill Passes

An opposition MLA attached a miniature hangman's noose to a desk microphone in the legislature Friday as the government rammed through final approval of its bill to fire G. E. P. Jones.

John Squire (NDP—Alberni) said the noose made of string signified the government's "crude abuses" of the institution of parliament.

He was ordered to remove it by chairman William Speare (SC—Cariboo), who observed "we express our view in this chamber verbally."

Opposition leader Robert Strachan accused the government of "arrogant display" of its powers during a stormy debate in committee that lasted two hours.

"We gave the Nazis at Nuremberg better treatment than this," thundered Mr. Strachan.

Temper frayed on both sides of the House as opposition speakers tried to needle government backbenchers and cabinet ministers into justifying the firing of the purchasing commission chairman without a hearing.

Smear, Humbug

There were cries of "arnear bill" and "humbug" from NDP and Liberals.

Two votes were taken during the debate. The first, when the opposition challenged a ruling from the chairman, was 28 to 18 in favor of the government.

The final passage of the bill was by a vote of 29 to 18. NDP and Liberals voted against the bill and all government members present voted in favor.

Several Absent

Two government backbenchers, Alex Matthews (SC—Vancouver Centre) and Hunter Vogel (SC—Bella) were out of their seats when the final vote was taken.

Highways Minister Gagliardi is out of town and veteran NDP member Arthur Turner is recovering from surgery.

Gordon Dowling (NDP—Burnaby) said the motives of the government in moving to fire Mr. Jones have never been examined. He called them "furtive, secretive and shameful."

Out of Order

His resolution that Mr. Jones be called before the legislative committee on public accounts which would conduct a full inquiry and report back its findings was ruled out of order.

The ruling of the chairman was upheld by a standing vote and Mr. Strachan angrily asked for the results to be recorded in the journals of the house "bordered in black."

"This is just as bad as any book-burning," the opposition leader said. "You've torn up the rule book."

Members Warned

Speaker William Murray, who had returned to the chair, said: "I want to warn members of this house—let there be order."

"There can't be order without law," said Mr. Dowling.

Premier Bennett was out of the house for most of the debate on controversial B10 34. In his absence the opposition fired questions at Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, who introduced the legislation.

Mr. Black said he wasn't able to provide answers on whether the government had asked for a recommendation from senior government officials for the removal of Mr. Jones or whether it had been decided.

Slander Writ Issued Against Premier

G. E. P. Jones lost his chance for a legislative hearing Friday, but sought to take his case to court.

In Supreme Court in Vancouver, a writ for slander and defamation of Mr. Jones' character was issued against Premier Bennett.

D. A. Thompson, acting for Mr. Jones, flew to Victoria Friday afternoon in a vain attempt to serve the writ on the premier.

It was announced later that lawyer George L. Murray of Vancouver will represent Mr. Bennett and accept the writ.

The writ is based upon statements attributed to the premier in newspaper reports of a Social Credit meeting in Victoria March 5.

The longest session of the legislature since 1920 was prorogued by Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes at 10:30 p.m. Friday.

B.C. Hansard Nearer?

The legislature Friday approved a New Democratic resolution calling on the government to "consider the advisability of establishing" a Hansard to record the proceedings of the House.

In support of the resolution, Opposition Leader Strachan said B.C. is one of the few provinces in Canada without a Hansard.

Fireworks Ban Bill
Blows Up in House

A private member's bill banning fireworks exploded in the legislature Friday, splitting both major parties.

Trade and Industry Minister Loumark, scored party whip Bert Price, deputy speaker William Speare and four backbenchers joined nine New Democrats and the five Liberals in the House to support the bill.

Opposition Leader Strachan and three other New Democrats sided with the remaining government members to defeat the bill 35 to 21.

PRIVATE USE

The bill, introduced by Mrs. Lois Haggan (NDP—Grand Forks-Greenwood) would have banned the sale of fireworks and their use by private individuals in B.C.

Recreation Minister Kiernan suggested the bill would be too severe, but various members speaking in support of the legislation, pointed to the reduction of juvenile delinquency when fireworks are banned.

Altogether, the legislature defeated or disposed of 17 private members' bills in addition to numerous resolutions from both sides of the House.

The second session of the 27th parliament of B.C. broke all records for the present administration which has been in power nearly 15 years.

There were 65 sittings, 25 of these night sittings, and it was back at the end of the First World War that any session ran longer.

Premier Bennett wasn't present at the end of the session. He left earlier in the evening for Kamloops where he is to attend a banquet in his honor tonight.

The House finished its business at 10:55 p.m. and resumed for 10 minutes until the arrival of the lieutenant-governor.

Mr. Pearkes read a brief closing speech which touched on some major legislation dealt with at the session including creation of medical grants and a new crown corporation to develop real estate to help finance university expansion.

Vikettes' Mary Coutts Manhandles Marpoles

Vancouver Marpoles experienced little trouble in winning 24 of 25 games against mainland opposition this year but none of the teams had anything to compare with University of Victoria Vikettes' Mary Coutts.

Mrs. Coutts put on quite a show for Marpoles last night as she sparked Vikettes to a 54-35 victory in the first game of the two-game, total-point, British Columbia junior women's basketball final.

Second game will be played at Gordon Head gymnasium tonight, starting at 6:30 p.m.

Sinking 11 of 12 free throws, Mrs. Coutts led all scorers with 27 points and her all-round brilliance kept Marpoles off-balance most of the game.

Only in the third quarter did the mainland champions threaten to make a game of it. Trailing 25-10 after the first half, Marpoles threw a full court press at Vikettes, completely disorganizing the Island champions. They outscored Vikettes, 20-10, in the third quarter.

Vikettes regained their composure in the fourth quarter, outscoring the visitors, 19-4, to take an 18-point lead.

Two Streaks Gone

Yanks Snap Back at Mets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New York Yankees snapped two exhibition baseball strings Friday when right-handers Mel Stottlemyre and Pedro Ramos collaborated for a three-hit 8-0 victory over the New York Mets.

Stottlemyre, Ramos and a 13-hit attack led by Tom Tresh helped the Yankees end a four-game losing streak and broke the Mets' four-game winning skid. The Mets beat the Yankees 3-2 Thursday.

Tresh, playing centre field for the American League champions, collected three singles. Mickey Mantle again played left field before retiring in the fourth inning. Stottlemyre gave up all three Met hits in the last two of his six-inning stint.

Pittsburgh right-hander Don Schwall pitched eight 2-3 innings in the Pirates' 3-2 decision over Milwaukee and southpaw Sandy Koufax worked eight innings for the Los Angeles Dodgers, losing to Detroit 3-2 on George Smith's three-run homer in the fourth.

Al McBean retired the last Milwaukee batter on one pitch after Schwall had limited the Braves to three hits. Smith's homer off Koufax gave the Tigers their first victory in seven starts. They have been involved in nine one-run decisions in 13 spring games.

WIN STREAK
The Cincinnati Reds extended their winning string to seven games, rookie Art Shamsky's two-run pinch-hit homer keying to a 6-3 verdict over Houston.

Don Buford hit a three-run homer and Pete Ward a solo shot as the Chicago White Sox whipped Minnesota 7-3. Bob Allison and Sandy Valdespino homered for the Twins.

Ed Charles and Mike Hersberger each drove in three runs, Charles with a three-run homer and Hersberger with a single, double and sacrifice fly, pacing Kansas City to a 6-5 victory over Philadelphia.

George Altman and Doug Clemens drove in two runs each in a five-run first inning and the Chicago Cubs went on to riddle the Los Angeles Angels 13-3.

The Boston Red Sox exploded for 10 home runs—by 10 different players—and slugged Cleveland 15-9 at Noyales, Mexico.

Leafs Certain of Playoff Tie Could End All Doubt Tonight

By JIM TANG

SEATTLE—Victoria Maple Leafs return home tonight to meet the Vancouver Canucks, at least certain that their hockey season will extend past tomorrow's game in Vancouver.

They didn't quite manage to clinch the fourth Western Hockey League playoff spot in groping their way to a 5-3 tie with Seattle Totems last night but the worst that can happen to them would be a playoff.

In the event Leafs do lose the two games to Canucks and San Francisco Seals defeat Los Angeles again tonight, the Leafs Leafs, who played without defenceman Bill Shvets, out with a charley horse, lost forward Danny Beale when he aggravated an old leg injury.

If Leafs snare the fourth playoff spot, they'll open the best-of-seven semi-final series with Totems in Seattle Wednesday. Second game will be played at Seattle Friday with the teams moving to Victoria for a Saturday night game. Fourth game would be played in Victoria on Tuesday, April 6.

BACK TO BACK

If a playoff is necessary to decide fourth place, games would probably be played Tuesday and Wednesday.

The tie enabled Leafs and Totems to wind up the season all even against each other, seven wins and a tie each.

NHL Hopes Alive

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's hopes for a National Hockey League entry will not be blocked by the NHL's refusal to give the city an advance franchise commitment, officials connected with the project said Friday.

Lawyer John Taylor, who represents the Vancouver Canucks hockey club of the Western Hockey League, said he is confident an arrangement will be made with the NHL so that the Pacific National Exhibition can go ahead with plans for a 14,000-seat arena.

NEED TEAM

PNE officials said previously that they could not build the proposed $4,500,000 arena to match NHL requirements unless they first got a commitment that Vancouver would be admitted to the NHL.

NHL president Clarence Campbell said in Toronto Thursday that no such commitment would be made.

FAVOR CLUB

Mr. Taylor said, however, that he had spoken to Frank Selke, president of Montreal Canadiens, and Stafford Smythe, president of Toronto Maple Leafs, and both were cooperative and favorable to Vancouver's inclusion in the NHL.

He said that if the PNE can present an architect's design for the arena to the NHL plus an assurance that construction would go ahead once a franchise is awarded, then all problems would be solved.

Vikings Second

VANCOUVER (CP)—Winnipeg Stars Friday night defeated University of Victoria Vikings 15-7, 15-2, to capture the first Canadian junior men's volleyball championship.

Led by apiker Randy Schuster and setter Mark Tennant, Winnipeg romped through the round-robin tournament with four wins and no losses.

University of Victoria was second in final standings with a 2-2 won-lost record. West Elgin Wildcats of London, Ont., were third and last with a 0-4 record.

During the tourney, Winnipeg defeated West Elgin 15-8, 15-10, while University of Victoria downed West Elgin 15-2, 15-10.

Boxing Quartet In Final Works

HILLSDALE, N.J. (AP) — Jose Torres went through an arduous training drill Friday, in preparation for his 15-round fight with champion Willie Pastrano for the world light heavyweight title.

The 26-year-old challenger did five miles of road work, worked out on the light and heavy bags, went through the normal calisthenics routine and boxed eight rounds with three partners.

The Torres-Pastrano match is the second feature on the championship doubleheader Tuesday night at New York's Madison Square Garden.

At Klamath Lake, N.Y., Grims continued his tapering program with three rounds of sparring. Gil Clancy, co-manager and trainer of the welter champion, said Griffith was slightly over the 147-pound limit and should weigh 145 for the fight.

Pastrano had an all-out sparring session with Tito Marshall at his Monticello, N.Y., camp.

The champion, under no-cinch orders from trainer Lou Groen, battered Marshall around liberally and had him on the ropes when the action was stopped.

Draws Cat-Calls, Boos

Canadian Canoe on Thames?

LONDON (CP)—The winding, historic Thames, scene of world-renowned boat races, may become the setting for a Canadian-style canoe regatta this year or next.

Arrangements haven't been made yet but the idea is foremost in the minds of members of a small community canoe club on the shores of the Thames at suburban Twickenham.

The club already has one Canadian canoe produced by a local builder and is planning for another.

"When we first started to take our canoe, the C4, on the Thames," said club member Chris Gorham, "we were dis-ted from the bank. Now we don't get any of that sort of attention."

George Sims, whose family has been building racing boats for generations, produced the canoe from plans brought over from West Germany where the Canadian craft has become highly popular.

"It took us about a month to build the canoe," said Sims, whose brother, Richard, emigrated to Canada and builds racing boats in Toronto.

"It is the first one we ever did, though we have built all kinds of boats. I think there are only about six of these Canadian types in all Britain."

Gorham described his Canadian acquisition as taking a crew of six and a steersman. To the curious and the interested he emphasizes that crew members kneel like Indians and use only one paddle.

Now the big job is to get other canoe clubs interested. The Twickenham club has formed a Canadian section and is offering help to other associations which want to go in for Canadian-style racing craft.

Eventually, if enough clubs show interest, the regatta will be planned, with the hope that it will be launched this year or in 1966 at the latest.

Reporter Tells of Snubs

'We Don't Want You Indians'

At the request of the Vancouver Island desk of The Daily Colonist, this newspaper's Galiano Island correspondent, whose great-grandmother was an Indian, has written an account of discrimination she has experienced.

By MARY BACKLUND

I got the impression at a very early age that I was not really as "good" as the rest of the people on this earth. I became pretty cynical about it, determining to show them I really could do well. But without my friends, I could never have learned to tell people about my Indian ancestry.

Sailed Here

My great-great-grandad, Henry (Scotty) Georgeson sailed around the Horn in a 100-foot craft from the Shetland Islands more than 100 years ago.

He married an Indian lady up in Lillooet, whom I take after, and later was a light-housekeeper at Active Pass for many years.

My dad, Albert Hawthorne, died in 1929 when I was four. I was born in 1925 on my dad's boat on the way to Ganges on Salt Spring Island. I went to grade school on Galiano to Grade 8.

On my 18th birthday, I was married to Andrew A. Backlund and, before one year was out, in May of 1944, Andrew was killed in a logging accident here on Galiano Island.

During my school days I had a rather poor time of it until another family of "mixed race" came to school. Then it wasn't so bad.

One of my school friends whom I will always remember as being so very kind to me was Ray Wormald (a former Colonist reporter now an RCN lieutenant-commander in Esquimalt).

On several occasions I tried to get a job in a cafe. Once I even went to Sidney and, as soon as the employer saw me, he said in absolute horror, "Oh, we don't want you!"

I am happy to say this hotel has changed hands many times since.

To show "them" I really could do well, I read every book I could get my hands on and watched all the people in authority carefully, to learn the proper manners of these chosen people.

I started joining the little clubs on the island and soon found a willing hand was a welcome hand. So I did my best to help, especially at dances, which I never missed. A chance came up to take over the reporting job for the Sidney Review and I jumped at it, soon after becoming the Colonist Galiano reporter, too.

I have met many interesting people.

Once, not long ago, I took a job as housekeeper to a lady in Oak Bay. She said I must eat in the kitchen, but once invited me into the "parlor" to have tea with some of her friends, who were a little taken aback.

To Show

But this old dear wanted to show them a girl from a mixed race could really behave quite nicely.

(I would rather fix a fire.)

I once visited, at her request, a lady in the Shaughnessy district of Vancouver and she told me she would tell all of her friends who asked that I was her "Spanish friend from Mexico."

The reason was, "You just don't have people of Indian blood here."

Helped Me

I have to thank so many wonderful people here on my own island who have helped me in so many ways to get the chip off my shoulder and to look anyone square in the eye and tell them about my Indian parentage.

But how do you tell about the dirty looks, the salesgirl who keeps you waiting unnecessarily, the waitress who waits until the very last to serve you?

When that happens now, I put on a very haughty air and make much noise. This gets results but I would sooner be treated like a real person than apologizing for being alive.

Now Active

I am secretary of the Galiano Club, the oldest organization on the island, secretary of the Galiano Island Joint Council and on the board of directors of the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau.

This year I will operate the Galiano Lodge Gift Shop for the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Clarke, for the second year.

Moccasins

They have adopted the Indian motif for the whole lodge. We will wear uniforms with a totem pole pattern and maybe even moccasins on our feet and feathers in our hair. The shop will, of course, feature Indian goods.

I must pay special tribute to my climb up the ladder to Tom Carlson of Galiano, who has helped me overcome my inferiority complex and just generally become a better citizen.

He has lived among the Indian people all of his life and knows of so many ways in which they have wronged it would make your hair curl.

Civic Affairs For Grade 12s

An expanded course in civic administration and regular visits to meetings of city council may become part of the studies of Grade 12 students, if aldermen have their way.

City council decided Thursday to ask the Greater Victoria school board to consider the move in an effort to stimulate interest in municipal affairs and eventually to overcome the apathy of voters at election time.

Port Alberni Tragedy

Mother Saves Three But Fire Kills Baby

PORT ALBERNI—A mother who saved three small children was unable to rescue her 14-month-old daughter when flames destroyed their rented home here Friday morning.

Baby Elaine Grace Nichol died when Mrs. William Edward Nichol was unsuccessful in an attempt to re-enter the home to rescue the infant.

MINOR BURNS

Mrs. Nichol suffered shock and minor burns in saving two older children and an infant only a few months old.

Port Alberni volunteer firemen, wearing masks and protected by a stream of water, went into the flaming five-room structure to remove the little girl's body from a bedroom.

The family dog also died. The house at 314 Fifth Avenue South was described as a total loss. The family's furniture was also destroyed.

The father of the family, an employee of Rank Sing's Logging Ltd., was away at his job on Alberni Inlet at the time of the tragedy. He was brought back to Port Alberni before noon.

CLOSE TO WALL?

Fire Chief William Venables said the fire may have resulted from an oil stove being too close to a wall. The building, owned by Henry Gong, is reported to be insured but the furnishings were not.

The alarm was turned in by a neighbor at 9:30 a.m. but the house was a mass of flames when firemen arrived minutes later. The scene of the tragedy is within three blocks of the fire station.

Flames Level Home In South Wellington

NANAIMO—Elderly South Wellington widow Mrs. M. L. Daye was released from hospital Friday after treatment for minor burns and shock suffered when her home burned to the ground about 1 a.m. Friday.

Her son Norman, the only other occupant, was not hurt.

Firemen said they thought the blaze started on the back porch and added fighting the fire was a matter of saving nearby buildings.

Campbell River District Told:

Health Help Best in B.C.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Health services here are second to none in the province, B.C. Hospitals Association executive secretary J. D. Bradford told the annual meeting Thursday of the Campbell River and District Hospital Society.

He told the society it "enjoys an enviable reputation for its progressive and forward thinking."

Mr. Bradford pointed to E. C. Cooley as "a stalwart and driving force in your community."

Mr. Cooley served on the association executive from 1959 until he moved to South America in 1964, when he was president.

"I feel sure you have other men who will carry on his drive for ever-improving care for the sick and injured," said the visitor.

FIRST INVITED

As further examples of forward thinking, Mr. Bradford said he was the first association official ever invited to a hospital society annual meeting and society chairman noted this district will have the first chronic care unit under the new B.C. grant scheme.

Hopes are to have the unit operating by December, 1966.

Hospital administrator Arthur

Lightfoot reported a surplus of $2,253 for last year compared to a $2,947 deficit in 1959, the hospital's first year.

E. O. King and Charles Crone were re-elected to three-year terms as trustees.

At the following annual meeting of the hospital improvement district, trustees Percy Moore of Sayward and Robert Langdon of Oyster Bay were re-elected for three years.

Chairman Claire Hamilton said rapid growth in the area may cut the tax rate to 1.35 mills, one of the lowest in B.C.

Plan Outing

Murray Matheson of the Victoria Natural History Society will lead a bird watchers' field trip to the Mount Douglas area Saturday. The group will leave the corner of Douglas and Hillside at 9:30 a.m.

Caution Urged in Nanaimo On Newcastle Park Future

NANAIMO — Caution was urged on all sides Friday after Recreation Minister Kiernan said Newcastle Island may be given back to Nanaimo for development as a regional park.

Mayor Maffeo said he has no official word from Mr. Kiernan's department. He pointed out the minister had promised to discuss the island after the legislative session and he has heard nothing official from Mr. Kiernan since.

The department took over the island from the city in 1961 for $1 and Mr. Kiernan suggested a similar price for its return. Nanaimo is still paying off the $150,000 it used to buy Newcastle from the CPR in 1955.

Mr. Kiernan said the government would be willing, after the $1 return, to split the cost of a regional park with the city.

Legislation passed during the session allows the government to pay one-third of the cost of regional parks and, in the case of Newcastle, might allow other island centres to help financially.

Chamber of Commerce president Richard Bond said, "It wouldn't hurt to evaluate the offer the find out just what we can do."

THE NEW LIGHT

"This throws a whole new light on it but I think we should do a little homework first."

The Chamber executive will discuss the matter Tuesday.

Former alderman Haig Burns, head of the Independent Retailer Association, said the IRA would back any development of the island "100 per cent."

He said the government showed the city a master plan at the time of takeover but government officials "were not willing to sit down and discuss the matter."

Mr. Burns added, "For the people of Nanaimo and all the mid-island, Newcastle Island should definitely be kept and developed as a park and recreational area."

To Tahsis

Credit Union Will Expand

PORT ALBERNI—The rapidly-growing Alberni District Credit Union will set up a branch at Tahsis on the west Island coast.

Members approved the move at the annual meeting this week. An official of the Port Alberni branch said the office in the company town will be set up in a trailer. The Credit Union here now serves many Tahsis residents by mail.

Directors told the meeting branch membership grew 440 last year to 8,462 and a cash increase of $346,000 presented "a very healthy growth picture."

President Harold Ryner said

"our target of reaching 50 per cent of the community population as membership is not far from realization."

Junior membership showed "a modest increase" as well.

STUDENT LOANS

The local Credit Union some years ago pioneered interest-free loans to junior members to replace a bursary program. Student loans last year, most of them interest-free, totalled $25,048.

General manager J. Howard Pratt said the organization has grown in his 10 years from two people in a small basement office in a building the Credit Union later bought, to 23 staff members in the larger Port Alberni office and the modern Alberni branch.

NEW BUILDING

George Cole said plans for a new Port Alberni building designed by architect Eugene Sternberg would give the Credit Union the ground floor, 6,600 square feet of floor space. The board room, staff lounge and storage space will occupy the second floor.

Mr. Cole was re-elected and Ronald Cruikshank elected to the board of directors. A later meeting of directors chose Mr. Turner as president, Mr. Cole as vice-president and H. J. Morris as secretary.

Courts On Move In Qualicum Beach

QUALICUM BEACH—Magistrate's and family courts will be held in the Qualicum Beach community hall starting Thursday, officials have announced here.

The reason for the change is that accommodation and facilities at RCMP detachment headquarters are no longer adequate. Magistrate Eric Finch will hold court each Monday and Wednesday. Only not guilty pleas will be heard at the police station after Thursday.

Jonquiere

Escort Plows Into Wharf

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Esquimalt-based ocean-escort HMCS Jonquiere plowed into Pier 1 at the Ferry Building Friday while attempting to berth for a weekend visit.

A gaping gash was torn in the bow of the ship but none of the 140 officers and men aboard was injured.

(In Esquimalt a naval spokesman said an investigation is underway to determine the extent of the damage to the ship and the dock.)

UP TO $20,000

Port Authority officials estimated pier damage may run to $20,000.

Dr. O. E. Ault, Canadian consul-general, said the Jonquiere would be given temporary repairs here and then would return to Canada for permanent repair.

The Jonquiere arrived in San Francisco with a sister ship, HMCS St. Therese, and the Pacific Command submarine HMCS Grilse.

Weapons Arsenal Seized

CITY OF INDUSTRY, Calif. (UPI) — Federal agents late Friday seized 373 machine guns, some of which "were intended for private armies in California." It was reported to be the largest seizure of weapons in the state's history.

The automatic weapons and a silencer were seized at the Equiguas Arms Co. in this Los Angeles County industrial community.

Slate Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch said, "Speed was necessary in this raid since our office has definite information that some of these illegal weapons were intended for private armies in California."

Lynch recently proposed legislation urging the outlawing of extremist organizations.

Civil Rights Murder

From UPI, AP

Three of four Ku Klux Klansmen arrested Friday by FBI agents for the highway ambush slaying of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo near Montgomery were released in $50,000 bond each the same day, apparently with money raised by Klan officials.

The body of Mrs. Liuzzo, first white woman to die in the Negro voting rights movement, was flown Friday night back to her home in Detroit, aboard an airplane sent by the Teamsters Union of which Mr. Liuzzo is an official.

Released on bail about three hours after Mrs. Liuzzo's body left Montgomery were Eugene Thomas, 43, of Bessemer, Ala.; William Orville Eaton, 41, Bessemer; and Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., 31, of Birmingham.

All three were released in the custody of their attorney, Matt Murphy, and Robert Shelton, Imperial Grand Wizard of the United Klans of America.

Still in custody was Collier Leroy Wilkin Jr., 21, of Fairfield, Ala. Authorities said he was on probation for carrying a sawed-off shotgun and would have to appear in court before he could be freed.

The four were charged in the Birmingham County courthouse with conspiracy in Thursday night's slaying of the vivacious white civil rights worker.

Alabama Atty.-Gen. Richmond Flowers later said he will ask for first degree murder charges to be filed against the four men.

"There will be no sweeping under the rug or whitewashing of this case. We will ask for the maximum penalty if we get the evidence," Flowers said.

President Johnson, his voice choked with emotion, went before a national television audience shortly after noon to announce the arrests and personally identify the suspects.

Correspondent Reports:

Red Missile Launchers Under Sea Off Cuba

MIAMI (UPI) — A veteran news correspondent said Friday night the United States has evidence that the Soviet Union may be building underwater long-range missile launchers off the southern coast of Cuba.

Jay Mallan of Miami, a correspondent for Time magazine, said there has been "mysterious construction work carried out at a point in the sea between Cuba itself and the Isle of Pines."

Mallan said the underwater work has been "photographed by reconnaissance planes of the Strategic Air Command that fly over Cuba periodically."

American experts who have studied the pictures are "puzzled" by them but believe the work may involve either of two projects, Mallan said.

He identified these as underwater submarine pens, or underwater launchers capable of firing long-range missiles. It was the existence of long-range missiles in Cuba which touched off the 1962 Cuban crisis and U.S.-Russian confrontation.

House would "waive the provisions" of the expulsion rule. He then named Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, 60, Privy Council President McRae, 56, L. Elston Cardiff (PC—Huron), 76, Raymond Eades (L—Montreal Hochelaga), 52, and George E. Nixon (L—Algoma West), 67. All were elected March 26, 1964.

Members on both sides joined in applause as the names were given out.

Mr. Pearson hoped there would be no request for the members to withdraw. "If they have offended by being here for 25 years I am sure they will not do it again," he added with a grin across the aisle at Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Pearson echoed the Speaker's words about Mr. Diefenbaker being "one of the great parliamentarians in our history."

Then he drew laughter by asking: "What would this House of Commons be like without him? That is a rhetorical question I have no intention of trying to answer."

He wound up by wishing the opposition leader health and happiness.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) joined in the prime minister's sentiments.

Guy Marcoux (SC—Quebec-Montmorency) and Gilles Giguere (Creditists—Lapointe) added similar sentiments.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he and the other 25-year members had been honored "in any way that I have never seen equalled in the years that I have been here."

"All I can say is that occasions such as this, where warmth takes the place sometimes of the harshness of debate, add to one's pride in this great institution. We stack our weapons and substitute verbal garlands."

The Jones Affair

Noose Dangles on Desk As Ouster Bill Passes

An opposition MLA attached a miniature hangman's noose to a desk microphone in the legislature Friday as the government rammed through final approval of its bill to fire G. E. P. Jones.

John Squire (NDP—Alberni) said the noose made of string signified the government's "crude abuses" of the institution of parliament.

He was ordered to remove it by chairman William Speare (SC—Cariboo), who observed "we express our view in this chamber verbally."

Opposition leader Robert Strachan accused the government of "arrogant display" of its powers during a stormy debate in committee that lasted two hours.

"We gave the Nazis at Nuremberg better treatment than this," thundered Mr. Strachan.

Tempers frayed on both sides of the House as opposition speakers tried to needle government backbenchers and cabinet ministers into justifying the firing of the purchasing commission chairman without a hearing.

Smear, Humbug

There were cries of "smear bill" and "humbug" from NDP and Liberals.

Two votes were taken during the debate. The first, when the opposition challenged a ruling from the chairman, was 28 to 18 in favor of the government.

The final passage of the bill was by a vote of 29 to 18. NDP and Liberals voted against the bill and all government members present voted in favor.

Several Absent

Two government backbenchers, Alex Matthews (SC—Vancouver Central) and Hunter Vogel (SC—Delta) were out of their seats when the final vote was taken.

Highways Minister Gagliardi is out of town and veteran NDP member Arthur Turner is recovering from surgery. Gordon Dowling (NDP—Burnaby) said the motives of the government in attempting to fire Mr. Jones have never been examined. He called them "furtive, secretive and shameful."

Out of Order

His resolution that Mr. Jones be called before the legislative committee on public accounts which would conduct a full inquiry and report back its findings was ruled out of order.

The ruling of the chairman was upheld by a standing vote and Mr. Strachan angrily asked for the results to be recorded in the journals of the house "bordered in black."

"This is just as bad as any book-burning," the opposition leader said. "You've torn up the rule book."

Members Warned

Speaker William Murray, who had returned to the chair, said: "I want to warn members of this house—let there be order."

"There can't be order without law," said Mr. Dowling. Premier Bennett was out of the house for most of the debate on controversial Bill 24. In his absence the opposition fired questions at Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, who introduced the legislation.

Mr. Black said he wasn't able to provide answers on whether the government had asked for a recommendation from senior government officials for the removal of Mr. Jones or whether it had been

Slander Writ Issued Against Premier

G. E. P. Jones lost his chance for a legislative hearing Friday, but sought to take his case to court. In Supreme Court in Vancouver, a writ for slander and defamation of Mr. Jones' character was issued against Premier Bennett.

D. A. Thompson, acting for Mr. Jones, flew to Victoria Friday afternoon in a vain attempt to serve the writ on the premier.

It was announced later that lawyer George L. Murray of Vancouver will represent Mr. Bennett and accept the writ. The writ is based upon statements attributed to the premier in newspaper reports of a Social Credit meeting in Victoria March 5.

LEGISLATURE PROROGUES

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The longest session of the legislature since 1920 was prorogued by Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes at 10:30 p.m. Friday.

B.C. Hansard Nearer?

The legislature Friday approved a New Democratic resolution calling on the government to "consider the advisability of establishing" a Hansard to record the proceedings of the House.

In support of the resolution, Opposition Leader Strachan said B.C. is one of the few provinces in Canada without a Hansard.

The second session of the 27th parliament of B.C. broke all records for the longest administration which has been in power nearly 12 years.

There were 66 sittings, 23 of them night sittings, and it was back at the end of the First World War that any session ran longer.

Premier Bennett wasn't present at the end of the session. He left earlier in the evening for Kamloops where he is to attend a banquet in his honor tonight.

The House finished its business at 10:05 p.m. and recessed for 10 minutes until the arrival of the lieutenant-governor.

Mr. Pearkes read a brief closing speech which touched on some major legislation dealt with at the session including creation of medical grants and a new crown corporation to develop real estate to help finance university expansion.

Fireworks Ban Bill Blows Up in House

Dallas
Guns:
$10,000

DALLAS (AP) — The rifle used to assassinate President Kennedy and the pistol with which Police Officer J. D. Tippit was slain have been valued officially at a total of $10,000.

The weapons, owned by assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, were valued Friday by three probate court appraisers.

Oswald's widow, Marina, was named by Probate Judge F. W. Bartlett as community administrator for the property. The $10,000 bid for the two weapons was made by a gun collector.

The rifle cost Oswald $12.95 from a mail-order house.

Both weapons now are in the possession of the department of justice.

A private member's bill banning fireworks exploded in the legislature Friday, splitting both major parties.

Trade and Industry Minister Loftmark, Social party whip Bert Price, deputy speaker William Speare and four backbenchers joined nine New Democrats and the five Liberals in the House to support the bill.

Opposition Leader Strachan and three other New Democrats sided with the remaining government members to defeat the bill 26 to 21.

PRIVATE USE

The bill, introduced by Mrs. Lois Haggan (NDP—Grand Forks-Greenwood) would have banned the sale of fireworks and their use by private individuals in B.C.

Recreation Minister Kiernan suggested the bill would be too severe, but various members speaking in support of the legislation, pointed to the reduction of juvenile delinquency when fireworks are banned.

Altogether, the legislature defeated or disposed of 17 private members' bills in addition to numerous resolutions from both sides of the House.

Peace Breaks Out in the Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Members on both sides of the Commons paid warm tributes Friday to five members of the House celebrating their 25th consecutive year in the Commons.

Prime Minister Pearson sent each a red carnation.

Speaker Alan Macnaughton began by saying the most difficult task for any Speaker is "naming" a member—the step taken in expelling an MP from the House. But he would name five members as long as the House would "waive the provisions" of the expulsion rule. He then named Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, 60, Privy Council President McRae, 56, L. Elston Cardiff (PC—Huron), 76, Raymond Eades (L—Montreal Hochelaga), 52, and George E. Nixon (L—Algoma West), 67. All were elected March 26, 1940.

Members on both sides joined in applause as the names were given out.

Mr. Pearson hoped there would be no request for the members to withdraw. "If they have offended by being here for 25 years I am sure they will not do it again," he added with a grin across the aisle at Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Pearson echoed the Speaker's words about Mr. Diefenbaker being "one of the great parliamentarians in our history."

Then he drew laughter by asking: "What would this House of Commons be like without him? That is a rhetorical question I have no intention of trying to answer."

He wound up by wishing the opposition leader health and happiness.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) joined in the prime minister's sentiments.

Guy Marcoux (SC—Quebec-Montmorency) and Gilles Giguere (Creditists—Lapointe) added similar sentiments.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he and the other 25-year members had been honored "in any way that I have never seen equalled in the years that I have been here."

"All I can say is that occasions such as this, where warmth takes the place sometimes of the harshness of debate, add to one's pride in this great institution. We stack our weapons and substitute verbal garlands."
